Thunderstorms Wallop Central Great Plains

Hailstones Pile 10 Inches Deep In Kansas Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy thunderstorms walloped the central Great Plains today with an assortment of wind, heavy rain and hail.

Showers lingered in parts of the Northeast where severe storms late Thursday caused two deaths and considerable damage in a sweep through central upstate New York and southern New England.

Fair and pleasant weather dominated most other sections of the nation.

Hailstones piled to a depth of 10 inches south of Oberlin, Kan., during a violent thunderstorm. The hail smashed numerous cars and trucks in an area 28 miles northeast of Wichita.

Winds approached 60 miles an hour at Chanute, Kan. Much of Kansas and parts of Oklahoma were under a severe thunderstorm watch in the predawn hours.

More than two inches of rain poured into southwestern Nebraska and northwestern Kansas.

The northeastern storms packed winds as high as 85 miles an hour in the Rome and Utica, N.Y., area. Windows were smashed, cars overturned and trees toppled.

Utility repairmen worked through the night restoring power to blacked-out sections of the two upstate New York cities.

One man was killed by lightning in Westmoreland, west of Utica. A tree fell on a car and killed a woman near Newport, N.Y., as the storms rolled eastward.

Heavy rains hit scattered areas along the northeastern storm belt.

Red Cross Ending Relief To Biafrans

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) —The Nigerian Red Cross is scheduled to end its relief operations in what used to be Biafra at the end of June, but about 3 million people are still living in hunger and economic despair in the former rebel state.

Experts warn that the Red Cross pullback could imperil the lives of some 2½ million children who lived through or were born into the 2½-year war of secession.

The director of the Nigerian Christian Council, Emmanuel Urhobo, said the figure of 3 million people in danger—estimated three weeks ago—probably has risen.

National and state government rehabilitation commissions are slated to take over the Red Cross relief work, but there is widespread doubt of their ability to run effective and coordinated operations.

In the East Central State, once the heartland of Biafra, the local rehabilitation commission reportedly has asked the Red Cross to remain beyond June 30.

The East Central State was hardest hit by the war. Although starvation no longer hangs over the Ibo people and others who joined the rebellion, many go hungry in villages and towns around Owerri and Orlu, 240 miles southeast of Lagos.

The victims were Army Sgt. Dale E. Williams, Walnut Street, Attica; Marine Corps Cpl. Ronald C. Morgan, Cleveland, and Army Pfc. Michael L. Chase, 7328 Morgan Road, Cleve.

Conservatives Score Win, Upset Wilson In Britain

See British Foreign Policy Shift

LONDON (AP) — As Edward Heath's Conservatives prepared to take over the British government, they share with Harold Wilson's Laborites the same international aims of extending British influence abroad, protecting the nation's interests and remaining loyal to its allies.

But in style and emphasis Sir Alec Douglas-Home, Heath's likely choice for foreign secretary, will differ from Labor's Michael Stewart on at least three major issues: —Nuclear weapons policy. —Britain's role in the Persian Gulf, the Indian Ocean and Southeast Asia.

Relations with the white supremacy regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia.

In the nuclear field, the Conservative program says Britain must retain independent control of its nuclear weapons to deter an aggressor. The Labor government assigned the nation's total nuclear strike capacity the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for as long as NATO lasts.

But because of doubts that "the United States government will risk a holocaust defending Europe against nuclear blackmail," Heath has proposed a joint nuclear weapons program in Western Europe based on the pooling of British and French resources, know how, and weapons arrangements including targeting.

East of Suez, the Conservatives are pledged to reverse Labor's plans to withdraw British troops from their Persian Gulf, Singapore and Malaysian bases, a withdrawal program due to be completed by the end of 1971.

There have been signs that Malaysia and Singapore would like British forces to stay on, and so would the Americans.

But in the Persian Gulf, where a new union of nine Arab sheikdoms is forming, the pointers suggest a continued British presence will not be welcome.

Heath and his aides have come out emphatically for better working relations with South Africa and for a new bid to come to terms with rebel Rhodesia.

They have promised to cancel the Labor government's ban on the sale of weapons to South Af-

Edward Heath To Form New Government

LONDON (AP) — Edward Heath led his Conservative party back to power today for the first time since 1964, unseating Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor government in one of the most stunning upsets of any British national election.

Heath was assured of becoming Britain's first bachelor prime minister since the turn of the century when the vote count in Thursday's election gave the Tories their 316th seat, guaranteeing them a majority in the 630-seat House of Commons.

Computers predicted a Conservative majority of some 30 seats in the new 630-member House of Commons. The Laborites had a majority of 65 when Wilson dissolved the House for the election.

"I am ready to form a government," Heath declared before he went to bed, grinning broadly.

In a television interview at midmorning Wilson said it was "extremely likely" the Conservatives would have a majority. But he said he would adhere to tradition and make no formal statement until his opponents had won 316 seats, one more than half the 630 seats in Commons.

It appeared that Wilson would be calling on Queen Elizabeth II before many hours to deliver his resignation, paving the way for Heath to become Britain's first bachelor prime minister since Arthur Balfour in 1905 and its first Conservative government chief in nearly six years.

The London stock market soared at the prospect of a Conservative government. At its opening the Financial Times index of industrial ordinary shares jumped 22.6 points, the biggest single movement ever recorded, experts said.

Just before noon, returns from 430 of the 530 election districts gave these results: Labor 231 seats, a loss of 43; Conservatives 196, a gain of 49; Liberals 2, loss of 3; others 1, loss of 3.

Meanwhile, the Conservatives pulled ahead of the Laborites in the popular vote. The totals in 428 districts were Conservatives 8,319,184—45.4 per cent, Labor 8,303,844—45.4 per cent, Liberals 1,159,956.3 per cent, others 527,495—per cent.

The sharp swing to the Conservatives confounded the public opinion polls, all of which had showed Heath and his forces trailing badly. "I think, to use a Nixon phrase, Wilson peaked too early," said pollster Louis Harris.

Heath, 53, fought his three-week campaign largely on domestic issues, promising to curb rising prices, cut taxes and combat inflation by reducing government spending.

A sharp reversal in the opinion polls moving Labor ahead of the Conservatives and Britain's first favorable trade balances in seven years led Wilson to schedule the balloting nine months before his government's five-year term expired. He picked the 153th anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo for election day and waged a campaign strongly reminiscent of the Conservatives' "don't change horses—you never had it so good" in the days of Harold MacMillan.

The Labor party may blame Wilson for misjudging the mood of the country and conducting a low-key campaign. But the day is unlikely to prove his political Waterloo. Other party leaders have already pledged to unite behind him as leader of the opposition.

Search To Resume For Man In River

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — The search was to resume today for the body of an unidentified man knocked into the Ohio River by a train Thursday night.

Authorities said the victim was walking across the railroad bridge to Sciotoville from the Kentucky side and apparently panicked when he saw the oncoming train. There are places on the bridge where pedestrians can stand while a train passes.

Large Red Force At Kompong Thom Boosts Pressure

PHNOM PENH (AP) — A powerful North Vietnamese-Viet Cong force attacked a provincial capital 80 miles north of Phnom Penh today and pushed to within 200 yards of major government strong points, the Cambodian high command said.

Moving behind a mortar barrage, the Communists struck Kompong Thom just after midnight. The Cambodian air force sent fighter-bombers into action at dawn. Latest reports said fighting was continuing and that the attackers were getting reinforcements.

Kompong Thom, on the road between Phnom Penh and the Angkor region in northwestern Cambodia, has been under almost constant enemy pressure for more than a month.

HIGH temperature of the season was recorded yesterday when the Roundtown thermometer reached 89 degrees. The highest overnight low of the season was felt Wednesday. Thermometers cooled only to a warm and humid 75 degrees during the night.

CONSTRUCTION warning signs were removed during the night from a county repair project on the Circleville-Tarleton Road. Henry McCrady, county engineer, was disturbed by the theft.

Noting that a serious accident might have resulted McCrady said today that he would give road signs away if he thought it would prevent such thefts.

In addition to the road signs, a manhole cover was taken from a catch basin on County Road 511.

Red Spaceship Reported Down

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet spaceship Soyuz 9 returned to earth today after its record-breaking space endurance flight with two cosmonauts aboard, Tass news agency reported. It was in orbit for more than 17 days.

The Soviet news agency said Soyuz 9 landed at a predestined area 45 miles west of the town of Karaganda. Cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevast'yanov were in good shape on landing, it added.

The spaceship had been orbiting the earth since June 1, four days longer than the American record for time in space set by Gemini 7 in 1965.

name forces have occupied most of Angkor, the site of the 12th century temple ruins that are Cambodia's greatest national treasure. There has been speculation that the Communists might try to set up a revolutionary capital in the ancient city.

There was no word on casualties in the fighting at Kompong Thom, but the Cambodian high command claimed today that its forces have killed more than 6,000 Communist troops in the three-month-old Cambodian war. In addition, more than 11,000 enemy troops have been reported killed by the U.S. and South Vietnamese forces operating in Cambodia's eastern provinces.

But enemy pressure on the country as a whole has never been greater. The high command said that in view of the worsening situation, Premier Lon Nol's government has asked the United States for helicopters and a wide range of other military equipment. Washington has not replied, a spokesman said.

Enemy forces, by blocking roads and railroads, have almost isolated the Cambodian capital. By today, only one provincial capital could be reached from Phnom Penh on what was officially called a safe road.

Cambodia's railroad link to Thailand remained closed today as government troops swept along the track trying to clear out enemy forces.

Highway 1 between Phnom Penh and Saigon was reported reopened this morning after being cut Thursday afternoon by enemy troops who mined the route. Highway 4, the route between Phnom Penh and the port city of Kompong Som, remained closed.

Wage And Price Controls Not Dead, Dems Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The issue of standby wage and price controls shows signs of igniting a congressional furor over President Nixon's domestic policies. "I think Congress should consider standby controls," House Democratic Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma said in an interview.

Although he stopped short of an outright endorsement of controls, Albert clearly backs the effort of Democratic members of the Banking Committee to write standby control authority for the President into pending legislation.

Nixon wants no wage-price control legislation, even on a standby basis, as he made abundantly clear in his economic speech Wednesday. Democrats have criticized that speech as lacking in effective new initiatives against continuing inflation and the slump in employment.

The drive for standby wage and price controls is building at a time Nixon seeks to raise the national debt ceiling by $18 billion and government statisticians reported another fourth of one per cent living cost increase during May.

Labor leaders and businessmen appeared divided over the wage and price control issue following the bill.

House approval of the bill headed off threats of another nationwide mail strike even though Senate action is not expected until after the July 4 recess and final enactment appears to be at least a month away.

But opponents said the House "will live to regret bitterly" the day it voted to give up Congress' 181-year control of the mails to an independent agency.

They said reform is only a label for a plan that will restructure the postal system but offers no assurance of faster mail service, efficiency and modernization.

The new service is to put the mails on a self-paying basis by 1978 through corporate powers to set rates covering expenses—subject to congressional veto, negotiate pay with postal unions and sell up to $10 billion in bonds, mostly for modernization.

President Nixon, Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount and House backers said the reform is needed to wipe out annual deficits nearing $2 billion—but opponents say the new system can avoid similar deficits only by a sharp boost in the price of stamps.

The pay boost, effective as of last April 18, is expected to cost $338 million for the full fiscal year starting July 1 plus $107 million for the retroactivity this year.

The House waded through 35 amendments—including unsuccessful efforts to resurrect the penny post card and save congressmen's patronage on postmaster appointments—during the long session.

Violence fell off to scattered incidents of sniping and fire bombing.

The shooting started Monday after reports that a white grocer had insulted a Negro housewife.

Police softened the curfew at the request of City Commissioner Athalee Range who telephoned that more than 300 Negro youths gathered outside her office shouting demands for an end to the restriction.

"It was certainly a wise move," said a police spokesman.

"Things are about normal. We had very few incidents compared with previous nights."

The spokesman said, however, the dusk-to-dawn curfew was still in effect, but "we'll use it only if it's necessary."

The violence has left 12 persons wounded by gunfire, scores injured and an undetermined amount of property damage.

Antiwar Meet To Draw 1,200

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,200 persons are expected to attend an antiwar conference at the Metropolitan Campus of Cuyahoga Community College this weekend.

The Cleveland Area Peace Action Council is host to the National Emergency Conference Against the Cambodia-Laos-Vietnam war which begins tonight in the college auditorium.

The council is urging conference participants and others from Greater Cleveland to join in a demonstration against Vice President Spiro Agnew, who will be here Saturday night to address a Republican fund-raising dinner.

House OKs Postal Reform After Long, Bitter Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale overhaul of the nation's mail system and an 8 per cent pay raise for mailmen have been approved by the House in a historic 10-hour session marked by some bitter floor exchanges.

With uniformed mailmen loading the galleries and tempers growing short on the floor, the House passed the reform-pay bill Thursday night 557 to 24 and sent it to the Senate.

An effort to pass only the pay-raise provision and reject the plan for an independent, self-supporting Postal Service was defeated 306 to 77.

House approval of the bill headed off threats of another nationwide mail strike even though Senate action is not expected until after the July 4 recess and final enactment appears to be at least a month away.

But opponents said the House "will live to regret bitterly" the day it voted to give up Congress' 181-year control of the mails to an independent agency.

Thunderstorms Wallop Central Great Plains

Hailstones Pile 10 Inches Deep In Kansas Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy thunderstorms walloped the central Great Plains today with an assortment of wind, heavy rain and hail.

Showers lingered in parts of the Northeast where severe storms late Thursday caused two deaths and considerable damage in a sweep through central upstate New York and southern New England.

Fair and pleasant weather dominated most other sections of the nation.

Hailstones piled to a depth of 10 inches south of Oberlin, Kan., during a violent thunderstorm. The hail smashed numerous cars and truck windows in an area 28 miles northeast of Wichita.

Winds approached 60 miles an hour at Chanute, Kan. Much of Kansas and parts of Oklahoma were under a severe thunderstorm watch in the predawn hours.

More than two inches of rain poured into southwestern Nebraska and northwestern Kansas.

Red Cross Ending Relief To Biafrans

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) —The Nigerian Red Cross is scheduled to end its relief operations in what used to be Biafra at the end of June, but about 3 million people are still living in hunger and economic despair in the former rebel state.

Experts warn that the Red Cross pullback could imperil the lives of some 2½ million children who lived through or were born into the 2½-year war of secession.

The director of the Nigerian Christian Council, Emmanuel Uroho, said the figure of 3 million people in danger—estimated three weeks ago—probably has risen.

National and state government rehabilitation commissions are slated to take over the Red Cross relief work, but there is widespread doubt of their ability to run effective and coordinated operations.

In the East Central State, once the heartland of Biafra, the local rehabilitation commission reportedly has asked the Red Cross to remain beyond June 30.

The East Central State was hardest hit by the war.

Although starvation no longer hangs over the Ibo people and others who joined the rebellion, many go hungry in villages and towns around Owerri and Orlu, 240 miles southeast of Lagos.

at least 100 federal officials will monitor desegregation plans this fall and investigate charges of discrimination, Pottinger said in an interview.

He said districts that discriminate despite approved desegregation plans will be taken to court by the Justice Department or lose their federal aid.

Some of the complaints he talked about were voiced on Capitol Hill Thursday by four young blacks who told the Senate's Select Committee on Equal Educational Opportunity of discrimination in their integrated schools in the South.

Anita Kleinpeter, a senior from Lake Providence, La., said the 150 blacks who entered her high school under a freedom of choice option were told they couldn't join school clubs until they'd been there a year.

She said during the second year standards were raised to include an A average for entrance and the third year clubs were closed, she said.

Blacks still can't vote for student officers, let alone be a candidate, Miss Kleinpeter said, adding that when blacks joined the band whites got out.

The school forbids blacks from using public instruments or band uniforms, she said.

Another young black, Tyrone Thomas of Mobile, Ala., told the panel, "If you're in English class and you have a point, the teacher seems to overlook you."

Thomas said his predominant white school opens its clubs, athletic programs and lunchrooms to Negro pupils but, he added, there is tension between

See British Foreign Policy Shift

LONDON (AP) — As Edward Heath's Conservatives prepared to take over the British government, they share with Harold Wilson's Laborites the same international aims of extending British influence abroad. Protecting the nation's interests and remaining loyal to its allies.

But in style and emphasis Sir Alec Douglas-Home, Heath's likely choice for foreign secretary, will differ from Labor's Michael Stewart on at least three major issues:

—Nuclear weapons policy.
—Britain's role in the Persian Gulf, the Indian Ocean and Southeast Asia.

Relations with the white supremacy regimes of South Africa and Rhodesia.

In the nuclear field, the Conservative program says Britain must retain independent control of its nuclear weapons to deter an aggressor. The Labor government assigned the nation's total nuclear strike capacity the North Atlantic Treaty Organization for as long as NATO lasts. But because of doubts that "the United States government will risk a holocaust defending Europe against nuclear blackmail," Heath has proposed a joint nuclear weapons program in Western Europe based on the pooling of British and French resources, know how, and weapons arrangements including targeting.

East of Suez, the Conservatives are pledged to reverse Labor's plans to withdraw British troops from their Persian Gulf, Singapore and Malaysian bases, a withdrawal program due to be completed by the end of 1971.

There have been signs that Malaysia and Singapore would like British forces to stay on, and so would the Americans. But in the Persian Gulf, where a new union of nine Arab sheikdoms is forming, the pointers suggest a continued British presence will not be welcome.

Heath and his aides have come out emphatically for better working relations with South Africa and for a new bid to come to terms with rebel Rhodesia.

They have promised to cancel the Labor government's ban on the sale of weapons to South Africa. (Continued on Page 2) lowing the President's economic message. Some want more control, while others want none.

Treasury Secretary David M. Kennedy also said Thursday there was "some likelihood" that Nixon would ask Congress for tax increases next year.

Democratic insistence on bringing the wage-price control matter to a House vote could harden party positions on the whole issue of the administration's economic policy—an issue some congressmen are saying will overshadow the Indochina war by the November elections.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., and other Democratic members of the Banking Committee want to write standby controls over prices and wages into pending legislation to extend the Defense Production Act, and they say their chances are good.

House OKs Postal Reform After Long, Bitter Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale overhaul of the nation's mail system and an 8 percent pay raise for mailmen have been approved by the House in a historic 10-hour session marked by some bitter floor exchanges.

With uniformed mailmen leading the galleries and tempers growing short on the floor, the House passed the reform-pay bill Thursday night 337 to 24 and sent it to the Senate.

An effort to pass only the pay-raise provision and reject the plan for an independent, self-supporting Postal Service was defeated 306 to 77.

House approval of the bill headed off threats of another nationwide mail strike even though Senate action is not expected until after the July 4 recess and final enactment appears to be at least a month away.

But opponents said the House "will live to regret bitterly" the day it voted to give up Congress' 181-year control of the mails to an independent agency.

They said reform is only a label for a plan that will restructure the postal system but offers no assurance of faster mail service, efficiency and modernization.

The new service is to put the mails on a self-paying basis by 1978 through corporate powers to set rates covering expenses—subject to congressional veto, negotiate pay with postal unions and sell up to $10 billion in bonds, mostly for modernization.

President Nixon, Postmaster Gen. Winton M. Blount and House backers said the reform is needed to wipe out annual deficits nearing $2 billion—but opponents say the new system can avoid similar deficits only by a sharp boost in the price of stamps.

The pay boost, effective as of last April 18, is expected to cost $338 million for the full fiscal year starting July 1 plus $107 million for the retroactivity this year.

The House waded through 35 amendments—including unsuccessful efforts to resurrect the penny post card and save congressmen's patronage on postmaster appointments—during the long session.

It was the third secret launch of an Atlas-Agena from Cape Kennedy in 22 months. The sources reported the two earlier satellites, fired Aug. 6, 1968, and last April 19, were experimental prototypes for the payload lofted today.

Both prototypes were placed in near stationary orbit above Southeast Asia, their speed synchronized with that of the rotating earth so they would hover always over that area of the globe.

Violence fell off to scattered incidents of sniping and fire bombing.

The shooting started Monday after reports that a white grocer had insulted a Negro housewife.

Police softened the curfew at the request of City Commissioner Athalee Range who telephoned that more than 300 Negro youths gathered outside her office shouting demands for an end to the restriction.

"It was certainly a wise move," said a police spokesman.

"Things are about normal. We had very few incidents compared with previous nights."

The spokesman said, however, the dusk-to-dawn curfew was still in effect, but "we'll use it only if it's necessary."

The violence has left 12 persons wounded by gunfire, scores injured and an undetermined amount of property damage.

Antiwar Meet To Draw 1,200
CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,200 persons are expected to attend an antiwar conference at the Metropolitan Campus of Cuyahoga Community College this weekend.

The council is urging conference participants and others from Greater Cleveland to join in a demonstration against Vice President Spiro Agnew, who will be here Saturday night to address a Republican fund-raising dinner.

U.S. Launches Spy Satellite To Probe World Trouble Spots

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Air Force today rocketed a secret spy satellite into space to gather a vast amount of intelligence data about Russia, Red China, North Vietnam and other potential trouble spots.

A towering Atlas-Agena rocket blazed away from Cape Kennedy about 7:30 a.m. EDT to propel the superspy toward a near stationary outpost some 20,000 miles above Southeast Asia.

The Air Force clamped a secrecy label on the launching and made no advance announcement.

Sources reported the satellite is the first of an operational series whose main job is to provide early warning of an enemy missile attack either from land or submarine.

They said the 26-foot long Agena carried a television camera to spot missile sites, air bases, troop movements and other military installations and infrared and X-ray sensors to detect the exhaust of a rising rocket.

Police Win Spotty Truce In Miami

MIAMI (AP) — Police gambled with a relaxed curfew and won a spotty truce today in black neighborhoods raked by four nights of shooting, looting and firebombing.

Federal Official Sees No Large-Scale Summer Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the federal agency charged with heading off unrest in the nation's ghettos says a replay of racial violence on the scale of Watts, Newark and Detroit is unlikely this summer.

But he adds that simmering unrest among racial minorities — "the everyday little tensions" — could easily boil over during confrontations with police into sporadic outbreaks.

"There is still, unfortunately, a great deal of hostility toward the police by minority groups," said Ben Holman, the director of the Justice Department's Community Relations Service. "Under certain circumstances, almost any kind of confrontation could lead to some kind of violence," Holman, a Negro, said in an interview. But he added: "This is not to predict wholesale rioting."

The police, he added, should "avoid at all costs the things that would tend to escalate a situation."

Holman's assessment was followed Thursday by a Justice Department prediction, prompted by reports it is gearing up for trouble in big city ghettos, that "cool heads will prevail this summer and violence will be avoided."

"This is due mainly to citizens' increasingly negative attitude toward violence and to police experience and training and handling of difficult situations."

What now confronts city officials, community leaders and the police, Holman said, is "a different kind of situation."

"When there is trouble, it will be minor outbreaks of violence between unorganized groups of blacks and browns and police," he said.

The pattern was set last summer, when feared large-scale violence in the cities did not materialize, Holman said.

Stock Prices Up Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock-market prices remained sharply higher at noon today, though the market leveled off from earlier gains.

Trading was moderate but slower than earlier volume during the big gains today.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 9.79 or 1.37 per cent at 722.48. It has now recovered from all of its recent downward price consolidation.

Advances led declines by more than 3 to 1.

Technicians said this extension of market gains suggested to many investors that the market was genuinely moving upward and on a real rebound from the Dow low of about 631 registered in May.

This rally began Thursday after the government issued a favorable report on inflation, analysts said. The report indicated the cost of living had increased at a lower rate in May than in any month since January.

Anticipation over the short interest figures due to be released by the New York Stock Exchange today also played a part in the rise, other analysts said.

New Committee To Be Formed For Day Care

Board of Directors for PICCA Day Care Center met Thursday evening in Memorial Hall auditorium. Purpose of the meeting was to advise members of the creation of a policy advisory committee (PAC) as outlined by the office of OEO.

Ron Hundenski, PICCA assistant director, explained requirements to establish PAC, reviewed its functions and appointed a committee to draft a constitution.

Mrs. William Boyssel, representing a parent from Day Care Center and Mrs. Richard L. Gerhardt, community board member representing citizen's group, were approved as committee members to draw up a constitution for approval. They will be advised by Mrs. Joyce Sobatka of the Day Care staff.

Mrs. Boyssel was also appointed to serve on the board of trustees for the Pickaway County Community Action program to fill the one vacant seat on the board.

PAC will function in an advisory capacity for PICCA Day Care Center — to be known as PICCA Head Start Day Care Center.

Ohio Resident Killed As Jeep Crashes
BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—A 52-year-old Chagrin Falls, Ohio, man was killed early today when the jeep he was driving went out of control, flipped over, skidded some 300 feet and struck a brick wall near a service station.

The victim was identified by Brownsville Police as Alvin Shelton Pitt. Police said his jeep was near Brownsville on Pa. Route 40 when the accident occurred.

Senate To Start Night Work To Clear Legislation Logjam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to start night sessions next week in an effort to resolve the legislative impasse created by the month and a half debate on U.S. policy in Cambodia.

The strategy was conceived by Senate Democrats with a dual purpose: showing good will to the Nixon administration by considering its legislative program and applying pressure for an early vote on proposed restrictions on future U.S. activities in Cambodia.

But an end to the marathon debate still seems unlikely much before the June 30 date set by President Nixon for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Cambodia.

The Senate agreed Thursday to vote Monday on an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., specifying presidential powers to protect U.S. troops, which appears to command virtually unanimous support.

Earlier Thursday, another agreement was reached to permit evening consideration of bills blocked from floor consideration by the current debate.

The agreement calls for the Senate to drop the military sales bill, vehicle for the current Cambodia debate, and turn to other legislative matters each day at 5 p.m. The night sessions are expected to last four or five hours.

The first measure to be considered will be a catch-all, supplemental appropriations bill that has to be passed by June 30. It is to be followed by a $4.5 billion education money bill that contains three House-passed riders to slow school desegregation. These have previously been rejected by the Senate.

If these can be cleared, the Senate will then consider such measures as the House-approved increase in the legal limit on the national debt—which also must be passed by June 30—and the controversial postal reform measure.

Silver Tea Open House Set June 28

Pickaway County Historical Society will host a Silver Tea Open House Sunday June 28, in the society's museum, the Clarke-My Home at the corner of Scioto and Union streets. Hours will be 2-5 and 7-9 p.m.

The Open House will give members, friends and interested persons an opportunity to see the home which has been restored, furnished and equipped by members dedicated to establishing an historical museum for the county.

The home was bequeathed to the society by the late Alice Ada May.

Exhibits will include old china, silver, lamps, school memorabilia and two mystery exhibits. Among the exhibits will be Dr. Jones' bird pictures.

Costumes of yesteryears will be modeled by girls of the community who will also serve as guides for the tour.

Silver Tea arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Roger May who is responsible for tea table decorations and Mrs. John Dunlap, refreshments.

Miss Dehl Renick is serving as chairman.

An invitation is extended to persons in the Pickaway County area to attend the Sunday Open House. Other invited guests are expected from Washington C. H., Chillicothe and Lancaster.

ULCERS

Authorities estimate that more than 8 million Americans are ulcer victims at some time during their life. Hundreds of patients consult doctors each month because of ulcer symptoms, and about 9,000 American men die each year as a result of ulcer complications.

While the cause of all ulcer conditions may remain obscure, a major cause is spinal nerve lesions with, or without, emotional tension. This explains the effectiveness of modern chiropractic care in ulcer cases. For the correction of ulcer causing nerve lesions and a minimizing of associated emotional tensions a doctor of chiropractic should be consulted without delay.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic by the Circleville Chiropractic Center under the auspices of the Central Ohio Chiropractic Association.

Federal Official Sees No Large-Scale Summer Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the federal agency charged with heading off unrest in the nation's ghettos says a replay of racial violence on the scale of Watts, Newark and Detroit is unlikely this summer.

But he adds that simmering unrest among racial minorities — "the everyday little tensions" — could easily boil over during confrontations with police into sporadic outbreaks.

"There is still, unfortunately, a great deal of hostility toward the police by minority groups," said Ben Holman, the director of the Justice Department's Community Relations Service.

"Under certain circumstances, almost any kind of confrontation could lead to some kind of violence," Holman, a Negro, said in an interview. But he added: "This is not to predict wholesale rioting."

The police, he added, should "avoid at all costs the things that would tend to escalate a situation."

Holman's assessment was followed Thursday by a Justice Department prediction, prompted by reports it is gearing up for trouble in big city ghettos, that "cool heads will prevail this summer and violence will be avoided."

"This is due mainly to citizens' increasingly negative attitude toward violence and to police experience and training and handling of difficult situations." What now confronts city officials, community leaders and the police, Holman said, is "a different kind of situation."

"When there is trouble, it will be minor outbreaks of violence between unorganized groups of blacks and browns and police," he said.

The pattern was set last summer, when feared large-scale violence in the cities did not materialize, Holman said.

Thunderstorms

Pennsylvania and Maryland. A number of cars, trucks and a mobile home were overturned in Baltimore County.

Large hail damaged cars and homes in the Maryland community of Phoenix, north of Baltimore.

Similarly large hailstones pounded Julesburg, in north-eastern Colorado. A four-inch cloudburst swamped Rayner, Colo., in one hour Thursday.

Cool and dry air spreading into the Midwest and Great Lakes region dropped temperatures into the 30s in northern upper Michigan overnight.

Readings before dawn ranged from 37 at Marquette, Mich., to 90 at Blythe, Calif.

Stock Prices Up Sharply

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock-market prices remained sharply higher at noon today, though the market leveled off from earlier gains.

Trading was moderate but slower than earlier volume during the big gains today.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 9.79 or 1.37 per cent at 722.48. It has now recovered from all of its recent downward price consolidation.

Advances led declines by more than 3 to 1.

Technicians said this extension of market gains suggested to many investors that the market was genuinely moving upward and on a real rebound from the Dow low of about 631 registered in May.

This rally began Thursday after the government issued a favorable report on inflation, analysts said. The report indicated the cost of living had increased at a lower rate in May than in any month since January.

Anticipation over the short interest figures due to be released by the New York Stock Exchange today also played a part in the rise, other analysts said.

New Committee To Be Formed For Day Care

Board of Directors for PICCA Day Care Center met Thursday evening in Memorial Hall auditorium. Purpose of the meeting was to advise members of the creation of a policy advisory committee (PAC) as outlined by the office of OEO.

Ron Hundenski, PICCA assistant director, explained requirements to establish PAC, reviewed its functions and appointed a committee to draft a constitution.

Mrs. William Boyse, representing a parent from Day Care Center and Mrs. Richard L. Gerhardt, community board member representing citizen's group, were approved as committee members to draw up a constitution for approval. They will be advised by Mrs. Joyce Sobatka of the Day Care staff.

Mrs. Boyse was also appointed to serve on the board of trustees for the Pickaway County Community Action program to fill the one vacant seat on the board.

PAC will function in an advisory capacity for PICCA Day Care Center — to be known as PICCA Head Start Day Care Center.

Ohio Resident Killed As Jeep Crashes

BROWNVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A 52-year-old Chagrin Falls, Ohio, man was killed early today when the jeep he was driving went out of control, flipped over, skidded some 300 feet and struck a brick wall near a service station.

The victim was identified by Brownsville Police as Alvin Shelton Pritt. Police said his jeep was nearing Brownsville on Pa. Route 40 when the accident occurred.

Senate To Start Night Work To Clear Legislation Logjam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has agreed to start night sessions next week in an effort to resolve the legislative impasse created by the month and a half debate on U.S. policy in Cambodia.

The strategy was conceived by Senate Democrats with a dual purpose: showing good will to the Nixon administration by considering its legislative program and applying pressure for an early vote on proposed restrictions on future U.S. activities in Cambodia.

But an end to the marathon debate still seems unlikely much before the June 30 date set by President Nixon for withdrawing all U.S. forces from Cambodia.

The Senate agreed Thursday to vote Monday on an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., specifying presidential powers to protect U.S. troops, which appears to command virtually unanimous support.

Earlier Thursday, another agreement was reached to permit evening consideration of bills blocked from floor consideration by the current debate.

showing probably was the unexpected low turnout, despite warm June weather, an extra hour of polling and extension of the vote for the first time to youths of 18, 19 and 20. The turnout was about 69 per cent instead of the 75 per cent anticipated, and it was believed that the majority of the abstainers were Laborites.

The sharp swing to the Conservatives hit minor parties as well as Labor.

Jeremy Thorpe, the Liberal party leader, barely retained his seat and was the only member of his party to survive in the districts reporting during the night. The Liberals held only 13 seats in the last Parliament and will have fewer in the new one. The Scottish and Welsh nationalists both lost the lone seats they had won in 1967 and 1968.

Another casualty was former Foreign Secretary George Brown, one of the most colorful figures in British public life and an indefatigable campaigner. His defeat after 25 years in Commons also cost him the deputy leadership of the Labor party.

Dr. David Pitt, former West Indian seeking to become the first Negro member of Commons, lost to a Conservative in the London district of Clapham where race may have played a part.

Enoch Powell, the right-wing Tory who made race a major campaign issue by calling for a halt to nonwhite immigration, doubled his majority in Wolverhampton. Commentators forecast that his success would move the party to the right, but Heath has vowed to keep him out of the Cabinet.

The election also returned the Churchill name to the House of Commons after an absence of six years. Sir Winston's journalist grandson and namesake, 28-year-old Winston Spencer Churchill II, took a seat in industrial Lancashire from a Laborite. He failed in his first try, in 1967.

Cathy Douglas In Law School

SEATTLE (AP) — Cathy Douglas, 27-year-old wife of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, has enrolled in the University of Washington School of Law for the summer session.

Mrs. Douglas said Thursday she plans to spend weekends with her 71-year-old husband at their remote vacation home near Goose Prairie in central Washington.

The Douglases will observe their fourth wedding anniversary July 15.

The agreement calls for the Senate to drop the military sales bill, vehicle for the current Cambodia debate, and turn to other legislative matters each day at 5 p.m. The night sessions are expected to last four or five hours.

The first measure to be considered will be a catch-all, supplemental appropriations bill that has to be passed by June 30. It is to be followed by a $4.5 billion education money bill that contains three House-passed riders to slow school desegregation. These have previously been rejected by the Senate.

If these can be cleared, the Senate will then consider such measures as the House-approved increase in the legal limit on the national debt—which also must be passed by June 30—and the controversial postal reform measure.

Silver Tea Open House Set June 28

Pickaway County Historical Society will host a Silver Tea Open House Sunday June 28, in the society's museum, the Clarke-My Home at the corner of Scioto and Union streets. Hours will be 2-5 and 7-9 p.m.

The Open House will give members, friends and interested persons an opportunity to see the home which has been restored, furnished and equipped by members dedicated to establishing an historical museum for the county.

The home was bequeathed to the society by the late Alice Ada May.

Exhibits will include old china, silver, lamps school memorabilia and two mystery exhibits. Among the displays will be Dr. Jones' bird pictures.

Costumes of yesteryears will be modeled by girls of the community who will also serve as guides for the tour.

Silver Tea arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Roger May who is responsible for tea table decorations and Mrs. John Dunlap, refreshments.

Miss Dehl Renick is serving as chairman.

An invitation is extended to persons in the Pickaway County area to attend the Sunday Open House. Other invited guests are expected from Washington C. H., Chillicothe and Lancaster.

Deaths

MRS. LILLIE MAE CARLE
Mrs. Lillie Mae Carle, 81, of Route 1, Williamsport died 10:20 p.m. Thursday in Monterey Nursing Inn, Grove City.

Born December 17, 1888 in Pickaway County, she was the daughter of John William and Dolly Stonerock Van Keuren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, George P. Carle.

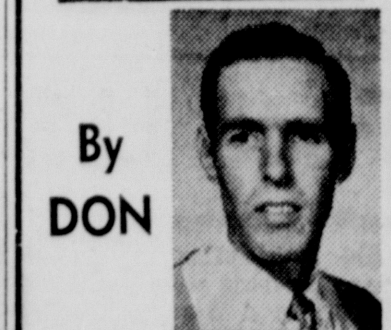

A daughter, Mrs. Clyde (Frances) Bidwell, Route 1, Williamsport and three grandsons, Joseph Carle, Germany; Carl and Marion Carle, both of Circleville, survive.

Services will be 10:30 a.m. Monday in St. Joseph's Catholic Church where she was a member. Mgr. George Buchmann will officiate. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Mader Funeral Home beginning 3 p.m. Saturday.

The Rosary will be recited 8 p.m. Sunday at the funeral home.

$75,000 Suit Filed In Court

Walter Rhodes, Route 2, has filed a $75,000 law suit against Carl Hawkes Sound Center for defamation of character.

The petition filed Thursday in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court states that Carl Hawkes, owner of the store, did "falsely and maliciously tell Jack Mills of the Circleville Police Department that 'Walter Rhodes stole three sets of sams (TV and radio repair instructions)'."

Rhodes contends the statement has injured his name and reputation.

Judge Places 3 On Probation

Three men were placed on probation by Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer today.

Earl Freeman Good, Goshen, Ind., who previously pled guilty to obtaining property under false pretenses was placed on three years probation following a pre-sentencing study.

Garry Elwood Cornett, and Donald Paul King, both of Columbus, pleaded guilty to the burglary of the Halmar Stone Co. office.

They were placed on three year probation terms and ordered to make restitution.

ULCERS

Authorities estimate that more than 8 million Americans are ulcer victims at some time during their life. Hundreds of patients consult doctors each month because of ulcer symptoms, and about 9,000 American men die each year as a result of ulcer complications.

While the cause of all ulcer conditions may remain obscure, a major cause is spinal nerve lesions with, or without, emotional tension. This explains the effectiveness of modern chiropractic care in ulcer cases. For the correction of ulcer causing nerve lesions and a minimizing of associated emotional tensions a doctor of chiropractic should be consulted without delay.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The economic squeeze that is shrinking the family's pocketbook is also hitting the television networks. They are reeling the way the average citizen does: looking for places to economize.

Television's austerity budgets probably will not be noticeable until fall, if then, but the 1970-71 season promises to be difficult. Cigarette advertising which totals as much as $250 million a year will disappear after New Year's Day. There are hopes of attracting new sponsors to fill the void, but other corporations also are watching their budgets.

CBS is on an especially vigorous economy effort. Omitted from next season's schedule will be the network's expensive but prestigious "CBS Playhouse" series of three or four original dramas; "CBS Children's Playhouse," each of which costs as much as an adult dramatic production, and the long-running "Young People's Concerts."

NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas has lost its insurance sponsor and unless another happens along, it will be among the missing next fall.

All networks think twice about replacements for executives and other personnel. Contracts of three NBC News producers which expired in recent months have not been renewed, including those of George Vicas who has been turning out documentaries in Europe and Al Morgan, former "Today" producer who has been developing new projects.

Both NBC and ABC says that their program schedules will not be affected by economies. While

CBS is expected to cut its number of specials, NBC and ABC, which usually has fewer specials than the other two networks, say they plan no reductions.

Economies can be made unobtrusively. The cost of the average hour-long episode in a dramatic series runs around $500,000. Networks are planning seasons of 24 to 26 episodes per series, which means that more than half of each television year will be devoted to reruns.

It is also possible to cut down on elaborate sets and costumes; hire less expensive guest stars; put fewer musicians in the band, reduce or eliminate scenes requiring lots of extras, and eliminate or cut back on location shooting.

The last of NBC's "American Rainbow" series of children's programs, "A Kid's Eye View of Washington" will be broadcast Saturday at 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. EDT.

Art Linkletter will guide four youngsters to points of interest around the capital.

When the series returns it will be NBC's "Children's Theatre" because it has lost the sponsor who keyed his advertising to the title.

Bridge Load Limit Cut

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways said Thursday it will reduce the load limits on the Fort Steuben bridge between Steubenville and Wierion, W. Va., and the Ohio River bridge between Pomeroy and Mason, W. Va.

No exact date for the reductions has been set. The action was taken on the basis of reports from an engineering firm which inspects the spans annually. The two bridges are the last ones across the Ohio River owned and maintained by Ohio.

The reductions would limit to 15 tons the weight of single trucks crossing the bridges. Tractor-trailer combinations weighing 27 tons would be allowed across the Fort Steuben Bridge. Tractor-trailers would be limited to 23 tons on the Pomeroy-Mason bridge.

All vehicles on the bridge will be required to travel at least 50 feet apart and further load reductions may be required if the bridges carry more than normal pedestrian traffic, the Highway Department said.

Operator Helps Little Boy Escape

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — His parents told young Mark Echternach that in case they weren't around and he got into trouble, he should pick up one of several telephones in the house and dial "0".

They explained this would put him in touch with the operator who could help him.

Several days later, the telephone rang and the operator asked Mrs. Echternach, "Do you have a little boy named Mark?"

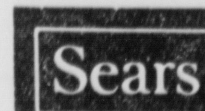

Mrs. Echternach hastened to assure her that she did. "Well," the operator replied, "he's locked in the basement."

CEYLON SEES RED — The newly elected government of Premier Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike (above) announces in Colombo that it is suspending diplomatic relations between Ceylon and Israel and is establishing full diplomatic relations with North Vietnam, the provisional revolutionary government of South Vietnam (Viet Cong), North Korea and East Germany.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The economic squeeze that is shrinking the family's pocketbook is also hitting the television networks. They are reeling the way the average citizen does: looking for places to economize.

Television's austerity budgets probably will not be noticeable until fall, if then, but the 1970-71 season promises to be difficult. Cigarette advertising which totals as much as $250 million a year will disappear after New Year's Day. There are hopes of attracting new sponsors to fill the void, but other corporations also are watching their budgets.

CBS is on an especially vigorous economy effort. Omitted from next season's schedule will be the network's expensive but prestigious "CBS Playhouse" series of three or four original dramas; "CBS Children's Playhouse," each of which costs as much as an adult dramatic production, and the long-running "Young People's Concerts."

NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas has lost its insurance sponsor and unless another happens along, it will be among the missing next fall. All networks think twice about replacements for executives and other personnel. Contracts of three NBC News producers which expired in recent months have not been renewed, including those of George Vicas who has been turning out documentaries in Europe and Al Morgan, former "Today" producer who has been developing new projects.

Both NBC and ABC says that their program schedules will not be affected by economies. While

CBS is expected to cut its number of specials, NBC and ABC, which usually has fewer specials than the other two networks, say they plan no reductions.

Economies can be made unobtrusively. The cost of the average hour-long episode in a dramatic series runs around $200,000. Networks are planning seasons of 24 to 26 episodes per series, which means that more than half of each television year will be devoted to reruns.

It is also possible to cut down on elaborate sets and costumes; hire less expensive guest stars; put fewer musicians in the band, reduce or eliminate scenes requiring lots of extras, and eliminate or cut back on location shooting.

The last of NBC's "American Rainbow" series of children's programs, "A Kid's Eye View of Washington" will be broadcast Saturday at 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. EDT.

Art Linkletter will guide four youngsters to points of interest around the capital.

When the series returns it will be NBC's "Children's Theatre" because it has lost the sponsor who keyed his advertising to the title.

Bridge Load Limit Cut

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highways said Thursday it will reduce the load limits on the Fort Steuben bridge between Steubenville and Wierion, W. Va., and the Ohio River bridge between Pomeroy and Mason, W. Va.

No exact date for the reductions has been set. The action was taken on the basis of reports from an engineering firm which inspects the spans annually. The two bridges are the last ones across the Ohio River owned and maintained by Ohio.

The reductions would limit to 15 tons the weight of single trucks crossing the bridges. Tractor-trailer combinations weighing 27 tons would be allowed across the Fort Steuben Bridge. Tractor-trailers would be limited to 23 tons on the Pomeroy-Mason bridge.

All vehicles on the bridge will be required to travel at least 50 feet apart and further load reductions may be required if the bridges carry more than normal pedestrian traffic, the Highway Department said.

Operator Helps Little Boy Escape

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—His parents told young Mark Echternach that in case they weren't around and he got into trouble, he should pick up one of several telephones in the house and dial "O".

They explained this would put him in touch with the operator who could help him.

Several days later, the telephone rang and the operator asked Mrs. Echternach, "Do you have a little boy named Mark?"

Mrs. Echternach hastened to assure her that she did. "Well," the operator replied, "he's locked in the basement."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As President Nixon addressed the nation on his economic policy, a feeling of imminent success in the battle against inflation was being expressed by some pro-administration economists.

They noted, as did the administration's chief economic adviser, Paul McCracken, that some slight slowing in the rate of increase had developed in wholesale food prices. And wasn't there a hint that wage increases are slowing too?

It wasn't the first time that they looked for the brighter side of things. For months they talked about a turnaround, but it didn't come. Like other people, economists sometimes wish harder than they reason.

They had their more pessimistic counterparts also, and it is from among these, such as Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, that the pressure arose for a more aggressive policy.

The Nixon people, however, carefully avoided becoming committed to any policy of direct intervention in the market place. Controls, it was said, were too strong; guideposts too weak.

As late as a couple of months ago the opposition to a more aggressive policy was firm within the administration. It fully expected that tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve, and restraints on consumer, business and government spending, would reduce inflation.

The absolute opposition to more direct action began to crack sometime within the past six or eight weeks when administration members, speaking for themselves, showed they were having second thoughts.

If the administration was becoming less certain of its methods, then it is safe to infer that millions of Americans became less certain also.

Outside the administration, the chorus of demands for some form of restraints on wages, prices and credit—including study commissions, voluntary controls, guideposts and rigid controls—began to rise, perhaps motivated in some instances by political considerations.

It was argued that what policy could be more in the American tradition than to mobilize the conscience of business, labor and consumers to eradicate the disease of inflation that was threatening the nation's economic health.

The argument for a more aggressive policy suggested that businessmen and labor union officials caught in such a dilemma needed some device to take the pressure off them. Guideposts, perhaps?

The problems were becoming too obvious to the American people for the President to ignore. It didn't take any poll to realize that the desire was growing among Americans for a statement of administration policy.

"Extraordinary country," mused his Lordship.

"How on earth did they know I was over here?"

Madam Melba, the famous opera star whose farewell appearance at Covent Garden made musical history, sank exhausted in her dressing room after thanking the ecstatic audience, the members of the orchestra, the stage hands—and a persistent stage-door Johnny who had put her into her carriage unflinchingly for thirty-six years and had her a chaste good-night.

"I hope I remembered to thank everybody," worried Melba. An underling ventured, "I believe you failed to thank the box office."

"The box office," shrieked Melba. "They should be here on their knees now thanking ME!"

OVERHEARD: Customs inspector to returning tourist: "You have an honest face, madam. Open up all your bags!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have a twisted blood vessel around the kidney that prevents a free flow of urine. I don't quite understand it. Can you explain?

Mr. R. R. F., Florida
Dear Mr. F.: Perhaps the best way to explain this is to tell you something about the way our remarkable kidneys work. Blood circulates through the body's blood vessels and always passes through the kidneys, which act as a sieve to take out impurities. Thousands of tiny tubules carefully filter out those chemicals and fluids that the body does not need and, at the same time, retain those substances vital to health.

From the kidney a tiny tube, the ureter, carries the urine into the large urinary bladder, where it collects. When the bladder becomes moderately filled it sends sensations to the spinal cord and through the brain telling us that we have an urgent need to urinate. This is the normal body function.

Sometimes, because of a malformation before birth, an unusually large blood vessel wraps itself around the ureter making it even narrower than it normally is and interferes with normal excretion of the urine. Occasionally, in adult life, infections may cause adhesions and narrowing of the ureter. Special X-rays with dyes can bring out these abnormalities and show them if they are present. This can be corrected surgically to prevent back pressure into the kidney.

I have always thought that thrush occurred only in infants. I was amazed when I was told that the white patches in my mouth was thrush. No one else in the family has it. Is this unusual?

Mrs. V. L., New Jersey
Dear Mrs. L.: Although thrush, a mild fungus infection, occurs in newborn and young children, it is not uncommon in adults. This infection is caused by the fungus Candida albicans. The appearance is that of a white cloud that might have been sprayed over the tissues of the mouth. It is not serious. Many adults will develop some form of fungus infection after extensive use of antibiotics.

Probably the greatest cause is sucking on over-the-counter antibiotic lozenges. Not only do they not contain enough antibiotic to combat infection, but the small amount in them is enough to upset the gentle balance between the germs and the fungus in the mouth. This can cause thrush and similar infections. Local treatment with anti-fungal drugs and the application of gentian violet are very effective.

Are X-ray treatments ever used to reduce swelling of the breasts after childbirth?

Mrs. K. J., Tennessee
Dear Mrs. J.: In carefully selected cases this form of treatment is used. Because there are so many less complicated ways of controlling this condition doctors use X-rays sparingly. You can be certain that it is suggested to you by your doctor it was after very careful consideration.

Repeated sties of the eyelids must be traced to the cause.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Friday, June 19, the 170th day of 1970. There are 195 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1819, the S.S. Savannah arrived in Liverpool, England, the first steamship to cross the Atlantic.

On this date: In 1586, colonists sailed from Roanoke Island, N.C. ending the first settlement of the English in America.

In 1754, a congress of seven American colonies met in Albany, N.Y., to discuss union for defense.

In 1756, in India, 146 British prisoners being held by natives suffocated in a dungeon which became known as the "Black Hole of Calcutta."

In 1867, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico was executed by the Mexican patriot, Benito Juarez.

In 1964, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was injured seriously in a plane crash at Southampton, Mass. Two other men were killed.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower, on an Asian tour, received his most tumultuous welcome in Seoul, South Korea.

Five years ago: Air Vice Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky became South Vietnam's Premier.

One year ago: State troops were ordered to Cairo, Ill. to deal with racial disorders.

Can Buckley Make It?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
The New York Conservative Party has been criticized as a "spoiler" group. In two successive New York City mayoralty campaigns, with attractive candidates of its own it succeeded only in splitting the conservative opposition to its hated liberal Republican nemesis, John Vliet Lindsay, who now threatens to parlay two local municipal triumphs to a 1972 Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket. (Let us hasten to add that this would hardly be a deadly menace to the Republic; Lindsay would be snowed under by the trans-Appalachian vote.)

Undaunted by its failures the New York Conservative Party is now running James L. Buckley for the U. S. Senate. The difference this time, however, is that there is nothing for the Conservatives to "spoil." The Republican nominee, Charles Goodell, who has all of liberal Republican Senator Jacob Javits's bad points and none of his good ones, is already so close to worthless to the Nixon Administration that if Jim Buckley helps elect a Democrat it won't matter.

On the other hand, the various Democratic aspirants (as of this moment of writing) are all of a kind. Between Goodell, the nominal Republican, and the Democratic bug-out-of-Vietnam Democrats (Sorensen, Paul O'Dwyer and the rest) there is as much difference as there is between a couple of pieces of buckshot or the proverbial peas.

Since there is no question of "spoiling" anything worth spoiling, Jim Buckley can plunge into his campaign with a clear conscience and a light heart. The crazy thing about it is that he has a fair chance of winning. Two years ago, when he ran on the Conservative ticket, he got 1.1 million votes, an impressive total when one considers that Javits, his 1968 Republican opponent, has all the popularity that Charles Goodell so conspicuously lacks.

In a recent private poll, the $15,000 variety with all the works, the Buckley support in New York State checked out at a 1.5 million level against any "liberal" candidate of the older parties. The probable turnout next November will be six million. In a three-way race 2.3 million should be enough to win.

Buckley, now in the Far East, from which he will return home by way of Israel, is only 800,000 short of the necessary figure, and he hasn't even begun to campaign. Buckley has logged an average of 60,000 miles a year in foreign travel for the last fourteen years. He is a rarity among old men in that he has old interests practically everywhere save in the Arab countries, which, with either luck or perspicacity, he has managed to skip. He did look for oil in Israel once, but, since he didn't find it, he will be able to make up his mind in our most controversial foreign policy area without any nagging personal economic conflicts of interest.

Jim Buckley has some of the intellectual qualities of his brother Bill (a lucid grasp of fact and a good sense of irony). He lacks his brother's flippancy, which in the earnest reaches of upstate New York, where they distrust the Manhattan patina, could be a plus. And he has the most beautiful slow, warm smile in politics. Furthermore, he is, as he has already been telling upstate voters, "the only candidate who supports President Nixon."

Will the "Nixon support" factor be lost on the many Republicans who think Charles Goodell, once a conservative member of the House of Representatives, let them down to go hunting in Javits' country without any of Javits's sense of marksmanship? State Senator John Marchi is already lining up Republicans for Buckley. Cliff White, the adept political organizer who helped put Anderson Carter over in the recent New Mexico Republican Senatorial primary, is rumored to be in Jim's corner. And five Republican Congressmen — Martin McKneally of Newburg, Carleton King of Saratoga Springs, James Grover of Babylon, James Hastings of Allegany, and Hamilton Fish of Millbrook — have gone out of their way to show friendliness for Jim.

Friendliness, of course, is not support. Yet it could be the cause of support from others. Jim would certainly reciprocate by voting with the Republicans to organize the U. S. Senate. So Nixon wouldn't even be losing a key Senatorial organizing vote if Goodell should no longer be there.

'The Godfather'

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Godfather" was published, many readers marveled at its detailed picture of life in a Mafia "family" and suspected that author Mario Puzo must have had inside information.

He smiles at the suggestion. "I grew up in New York hearing stories about the Mafia, and I've gambled a great deal so I've observed the operation. But I don't know it from the inside."

What was the reaction of the Mafia?

"They like it. I hear this from friends who are in a position to know. Or I run into guys in Las Vegas who clap me on the shoulder and say that I am a truth teller."

"The Godfather" was a romanticized version of what the Mafia life is like. They're really not that nice. Oh, they can be charming on social occasions, and their family life is very close."

The "Godfather" is one of the phenomena of recent publishing. After more than a year it remains on the hardcover best seller lists, having sold 300,000 in the trade edition and 400,000 to book clubs. Published two months ago in paperback, it has racked up 4.5 million copies sold.

Puzo is in Hollywood to convert the novel into a movie script.

Paramount bought the screen rights at somewhat of a bargain.

"I sold an option for $12,000 on the basis of the first 100 pages," Puzo recalled.

With escalation clauses, Puzo will make $100,000 from his sale, plus his salary as a writer and a small percentage of the profits.

Puzo wears his success well. He is a life-loving Italian-American with straight black hair, lively eyes behind thick lenses, a round face and belly to match. He makes no secret of his delight in his newfound wealth.

"All my life I've been paying six to five to the loan sharks," he said. "It's great at last to be able to take off for Puerto Rico or Florida, just because I feel like going."

Puzo has been writing all his life, but until 10 years ago he never earned enough from it to support his wife and five children. A native New Yorker he worked as a civil servant until he started clicking in the magazine field. He produced two novels, "The Dark Arena" and "The Fortunate Pilgrim," both critically acclaimed but poor sellers.

He presented the idea for a Mafia novel to his publishers, Atheneum, but they turned it down. So did Harcourt, Brace. But when he told Putnam editors some Mafia tales "many of the stories in the book I heard as a boy," they signed him.

As soon as he finishes the movie script, Puzo expects to start on his next novel. He faces the problem of any person who scores a hit: what to do for an encore.

"There is a temptation to go for the sure-shot, say, 'The Godmother,' I know I could make a bundle by doing another Mafia novel. I've already been offered a half-million for the next novel but I've turned it down."

"I've worked too hard to get where I am now. I've earned the right to write what I please."

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The two most troubled periods in most people's lives are adolescence and middle age. They are startlingly alike in that during their reign a person's thoughts and actions are deeply influenced by an inner hysteria and insecurity of which outsiders may be almost totally unaware. The cure for both adolescence and middle age is the same: you simply have to outgrow them—and go on to a calmer and better time.

Dear Editor:

Contrary to many peoples way of thinking, I contend that our military forces should never be made the recipient of the misfits of our society. This contention is a repeat of the one I made in a recent letter to this column.

On the front page of Tuesday's Herald there appeared an AP item titled: "Draft Boards Said Taking Unfit Youths." The following is a paragraph from that article: "In its report released Monday by the Pentagon, the panel recommended the Army concentrate on rapidly identifying the unfit and unstable before they get into trouble."

After having received several phone calls and letters, and even taken to task in a more direct manner by face-to-face confrontation, it was a bit heartening to learn through the AP article that I was right.

In one of the recent letters that appeared in this column it was stated that one should not criticize the army if one had never served in it. Following that line of reasoning one should not be opposed to adultery, prostitution, incest, rape, murder, the taking of dope, etc., until one has tried them.

What a world this would be if such were true!

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — As President Nixon addressed the nation on his economic policy, a feeling of imminent success in the battle against inflation was expressed by some pro-administration economists.

They noted, as did the administration's chief economic adviser, Paul McCracken, that some slight slowing in the rate of increase had developed in wholesale food prices. And wasn't there a hint that wage increases are slowing too?

It wasn't the first time that they looked for the brighter side of things. For months they talked about a turnaround, but it didn't come. Like other people, economists sometimes wish harder than they reason.

They had their more pessimistic counterparts also, and it is from among these, such as Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, that the pressure arose for a more aggressive policy.

The Nixon people, however, carefully avoided becoming committed to any policy of direct intervention in the market place. Controls, it was said, were too strong; guideposts too weak.

As late as a couple of months ago the opposition to a more aggressive policy was firm within the administration. It fully expected that tightening of the money supply by the Federal Reserve, and restraints on consumer, business and government spending, would reduce inflation.

The absolute opposition to more direct action began to crack sometime within the past six or eight weeks when administration members, speaking for themselves, showed they were having second thoughts.

If the administration was becoming less certain of its methods, then it is safe to infer that millions of Americans became less certain also.

Outside the administration, the chorus of demands for some form of restraints on wages, prices and credit—including study commissions, voluntary controls, guideposts and rigid controls—began to rise, perhaps motivated in some instances by political considerations.

It was argued that what policy could be more in the American tradition than to inactivate the conscience of business, labor and consumers to eradicate the disease of inflation that was threatening the nation's economic health.

The argument for a more aggressive policy suggested that businessmen and labor union officials caught in such a dilemma needed some device to take the pressure off them. Guideposts, perhaps?

The problems were becoming too obvious to the American people for the President to ignore. It didn't take any poll to realize that the desire was growing among Americans for a statement of administration policy.

LORD HIGGENBOTTOM was driving through the Blue Ridge Mountains and suddenly came upon a sign that read, "Drive slowly. Sharp curves ahead. This means you." "Extraordinary country," mused his Lordship.

"How on earth did they know I was over here?" Madam Melba, the famous opera star whose farewell appearance at Covent Garden made musical history, sank exhausted in her dressing room after thanking the ecstatic audience, the members of the orchestra, the stage hands—and a persistent stage-door Johnny who had put her into her carriage unflinchingly for thirty-six years and bid her a chaste good-night.

"I hope I remembered to thank everybody," worried Melba. An underling ventured, "I believe you failed to thank the box office." "The box office," shrieked Melba. "They should be here on their knees now thanking ME!"

Girl at vacation resort to eager lad who has just picked her up: "I never read number one best-sellers. I'm not that kind of a girl!" Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have a twisted blood vessel around the kidney that prevents a free flow of urine. I don't quite understand it. Can you explain?

Mr. R. R. F., Florida Dear Mr. F.: Perhaps the best way to explain this is to tell you something about the way our remarkable kidneys work. Blood circulates through the body's blood vessels and always passes through the kidneys, which act as a sieve to take out impurities. Thousands of tiny tubules carefully filter out those chemicals and fluids that the body does not need and, at the same time, retain those substances vital to health.

From the kidney a tiny tube, the ureter, carries the urine into the large urinary bladder, where it collects. When the bladder becomes moderately filled it sends sensations to the spinal cord and through the brain telling us that we have an urgent need to urinate. This is the normal body function.

Sometimes, because of a malformation before birth, an unusually large blood vessel wraps itself around the ureter making it even narrower than it normally is and interferes with normal excretion of the urine. Occasionally, in adult life, infections may cause adhesions and narrowing of the ureter. Special X-rays with dyes can bring out these abnormalities and show them if they are present. This can be corrected surgically to prevent back pressure into the kidney.

I have always thought that thrush occurred only in infants. I was amazed when I was told that the white patches in my mouth was thrush. No one else in the family has it. Is this unusual?

Mrs. V. L., New Jersey Dear Mrs. L.: Although thrush, a mild fungus infection, occurs in newborn and young children, it is not uncommon in adults. This infection is caused by the fungus Candida albicans. The appearance is that of a white cloud that might have been sprayed over the tissues of the mouth. It is not serious. Many adults will develop some form of fungus infection after extensive use of antibiotics.

Probably the greatest cause is sucking on over-the-counter antibiotic lozenges. Not only do they not contain enough antibiotic to combat infection, but the small amount in them is enough to upset the gentle balance between the germs and the fungus in the mouth. This can cause thrush and similar infections. Local treatment with anti-fungal drugs and the application of gentian violet are very effective.

Are X-ray treatments ever used to reduce swelling of the breasts after childbirth?

Mrs. K. J., Tennessee Dear Mrs. J.: In carefully selected cases this form of treatment is used. Because there are so many less complicated ways of controlling this condition doctors use X-rays sparingly. You can be certain that it is suggested to you by your doctor it was after very careful consideration.

Repeated sties of the eyelids must be traced to the cause.

Can Buckley Make It?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The New York Conservative Party has been criticized as a "spoiler" group. In two successive New York City mayoralty campaigns, with attractive candidates of its own it succeeded only in splitting the conservative opposition to its hated liberal Republican nemesis, John Vliet Lindsay, who now threatens to parlay two local municipal triumphs to a 1972 Presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket. (Let us hasten to add that this would hardly be a deadly menace to the Republic; Lindsay would be snowed under by the trans-Appalachian vote.)

Undaunted by its failures the New York Conservative Party is now running James L. Buckley for the U. S. Senate. The difference this time, however, is that there is nothing for the Conservatives to "spoil." The Republican nominee, Charles Goodell, who has all of liberal Republican Senator Jacob Javits' bad points and none of his good ones, is already so close to worthless to the Nixon Administration that if Jim Buckley helps elect a Democrat it won't matter.

On the other hand, the various Democratic aspirants (as of this moment of writing) are all of a kind. Between Goodell, the nominal Republican, and the Democratic bug-out-of-Vietnam Democrats (Sorensen, Paul O'Dwyer and the rest) there is as much difference as there is between a couple of pieces of buckshot or the proverbial peas.

Since there is no question of "spoiling" anything worth spoiling, Jim Buckley can plunge into his campaign with a clear conscience and a light heart. The crazy thing about it is that he has a fair chance of winning. Two years ago, when he ran on the Conservative ticket, he got 1.1 million votes, an impressive total when one considers that Javits, his 1968 Republican opponent, has all the popularity that Charles Goodell so conspicuously lacks.

In a recent private poll, the $15,000 variety with all the works, the Buckley support in New York State checked out at a 1.5 million level against any "liberal" candidate of the older parties. The probable turnout next November will be six million. In a three-way race 2.3 million should be enough to win.

Buckley, now in the Far East, from which he will return home by way of Israel, is only 800,000 short of the necessary figure, and he hasn't even begun to campaign. Buckley has logged an average of 60,000 miles a year in foreign travel for the last fourteen years. He is a rarity among old men in that he has oil interests practically everywhere save in the Arab countries, which, with either luck or perspicacity, he has managed to skip. He did look for oil in Israel once, but, since he didn't find it, he will be able to make up his mind in our most controversial foreign policy area without any nagging personal economic conflicts of interest.

Jim Buckley has some of the intellectual qualities of his brother Bill (a lucid grasp of fact and a good sense of irony). He lacks his brother's flippancy, which in the earnest reaches of upstate New York, where they distrust the Manhattan patina, could be a plus. And he has the most beautiful slow, warm smile in politics. Furthermore, he is, as he has already been telling upstate voters, "the only candidate who supports President Nixon."

Will the "Nixon support" factor be lost on the many Republicans who think Charles Goodell, once a conservative member of the House of Representatives, let them down to go hunting in Javits' country without any of Javits' sense of marksmanship? State Senator John Marchi is already lining up Republicans for Buckley. Cliff White, the adept political organizer who helped put Anderson Carter over in the recent New Mexico Republican Senatorial primary, is rumored to be in Jim's corner. And five Republican Congressmen — Martin McKnealy of Newburg, Carleton King of Saratoga Springs, James Grover of Babylon, James Hastings of Allegany, and Hamilton Fish of Millbrook — have gone out of their way to show friendliness for Jim.

Friendliness, of course, is not support. Yet it could be the cause of support from others. Jim would certainly reciprocate by voting with the Republicans to organize the U. S. Senate. So Nixon wouldn't even be losing a key Senatorial organizing vote if Goodell should no longer be there.

'The Godfather'

By BOB THOMAS

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When "The Godfather" was published, many readers marveled at its detailed picture of life in a Mafia "family" and suspected that author Mario Puzo must have had inside information.

He smiles at the suggestion. "I grew up in New York hearing stories about the Mafia, and I've gambled a great deal so I've observed the operation. But I don't know it from the inside."

What was the reaction of the Mafia? "They like it. I hear this from friends who are in a position to know. Or I run into guys in Las Vegas who clap me on the shoulder and say that I am a truth teller."

"The Godfather" was a romanticized version of what the Mafia life is like. They're really not that nice. Oh, they can be charming on social occasions, and their family life is very close."

"The Godfather" is one of the phenomena of recent publishing. After more than a year it remains on the hardcover best seller lists, having sold 360,000 in the trade edition and 400,000 to book clubs. Published two months ago in paperback, it has racked up 4.5 million copies sold.

Puzo is in Hollywood to convert the novel into a movie script.

Paramount bought the screen rights at somewhat of a bargain.

"I sold an option for $12,000 on the basis of the first 100 pages," Puzo recalled.

With escalation clauses, Puzo will make $100,000 from the sale, plus his salary as a writer and a small percentage of the profits.

Puzo wears his success well. He is a life-loving Italian-American with straight black hair, lively eyes behind thick lenses, a round face and belly to match. He makes no secret of his delight in his newfound wealth.

"All my life I've been paying six to five to the loan sharks," he said. "It's great at last to be able to take off for Puerto Rico or Florida, just because I feel like going."

Puzo has been writing all his life, but until 10 years ago he never earned enough from it to support his wife and five children. A native New Yorker he worked as a civil servant until he started clicking in the magazine field. He produced two novels, "The Dark Arena" and "The Fortunate Pilgrim," both critically acclaimed but poor sellers.

He presented the idea for a Mafia novel to his publishers, Atheneum, but they turned it down. So did Harcourt, Brace. But when he told Putnam editors some Mafia tales "many of the stories in the book I heard as a boy," they signed him.

As soon as he finishes the movie script, Puzo expects to start on his next novel. He faces the problem of any person who scores a hit: what to do for an encore.

"There is a temptation to go for the sure-shot, say, 'The Godmother,' I know I could make a bundle by doing another Mafia novel. I've already been offered a half-million for the next novel but I've turned it down."

"I've worked too hard to get where I am now. I've earned the right to write what I please."

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

The two most troubled periods in most people's lives are adolescence and middle age. They are startlingly alike in that during their reign a person's thoughts and actions are deeply influenced by an inner hysteria and insecurity of which outsiders may be almost totally unaware. The cure for both adolescence and middle age is the same: you simply have to outgrow them—and go on to a calmer and better time.

An old-timer is a guy who can remember when a girl going out on a date took along only a dollar bill for her mad money.

You rarely learn anything very interesting from talking to people at a cocktail party who wear sunglasses to cover up the way they still look from the cocktail party they went to the night before.

No one looks so hopeful as the old maid the day the cruise ship sails—or so forlorn the day it returns.

One of the things men wonder about all their lives is why girls tend to go to the powder room in pairs and what they talk about when they get there. Well, what they generally do is exchange opinions about their escorts, and the longer they linger in the powder room the less flattering those opinions are.

Nothing arouses the hidden paranoia in every office worker more than putting a dime in the office vending machine and getting back neither the soft drink nor the coin. It brings all the woes of his lifetime to a peak.

One of the first lessons of maturity is to have a wholesome distrust of anybody who is always telling you where to buy things wholesale. He's usually no bargain himself.

An optimist is a guy who marries a hatcheck girl in the belief that he can win a lovely smile from her every day thereafter by giving her a two-bit tip.

People are getting to have less and less faith in science, which at one time was supposed to create an endlessly better world. It has, instead, spawned so many Frankenstein horrors that all we can hope for is that it will refrain from cross-breeding termites with woodpeckers.

Newsman are often unfairly blamed because the front page contains mostly bad news. But even if a newspaper printed a front page with nothing but good news on it, folks are so contrary that they'd still use it to line the bottom of a bird cage tomorrow.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Contrary to many peoples way of thinking, I contend that our military forces should never be made the recipient of the misfits of our society. This contention is a repeat of the one I made in a recent letter to this column.

On the front page of Tuesday's Herald there appeared an AP item titled: "Draft Boards Said Taking Unfit Youths." The following is a paragraph from that article: "In its report released Monday by the Pentagon, the panel recommended the Army concentrate on rapidly identifying the unfit and unstable before they get into trouble."

After having received several phone calls and letters, and even taken to task in a more direct manner by face-to-face confrontation, it was a bit heartening to learn through the AP article that I was right.

In one of the recent letters that appeared in this column it was stated that one should not criticize the army if one had never served in it. Following that line of reasoning one should not be opposed to adultery, prostitution, incest, rape, murder, the taking of dope, etc., until one has tried them.

What a world this would be if such were true!

In other recent editions of the Herald there appeared further proof that to continue to induct every Tom, Dick, and Harry into our armed forces will continue to compound these alleged incidences, such as the massacres in Vietnam that are contributing unfavorably to America's image.

As to that image, I am sure that the consensus of opinion will agree that our armed forces can in many ways prove to the rest of the world that America is the best humane of all the nations of the world.

Governors Set Meet In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some problems of the modern age — and a few old ones — are on the agenda for the ninth annual Midwest Governor Conference to be held here July 19-22.

At least 13 governors are reported to have accepted invitations to the meeting which embraces 15 states.

Topics on the tentative agenda include prevention of drug abuse; environmental controls; a business look at reorganization of the executive branch; OEO partnership with the states and problems in federal-state relations.

States included in the conference area are West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas is to chair a panel discussion on responsibility of the states in the prevention of drug abuse and enforcing drug controls.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky will head a panel discussion on partnerships between the states and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Other governors participating in the program will include Norbert T. Tiemann of Nebraska, Edgar D. Whitcomb of Indiana and Robert D. Ray of Iowa.

Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio is host.

Stabbing Scene Is Too Lifelike

MELBOURNE (AP) — The stabbing scene in "Julius Caesar" was just a bit too lifelike, or death-like, for actor Brian Muir.

Playing the Roman emperor, Muir slumped to the stage floor after being stabbed.

"Blood" from bags hidden in his clothing flowed freely — and so did his own. His assailants had wielded their knives over-enthusiastically, wounding Brian in the arm.

"I lay there for the next 10 minutes of the scene wondering how much of the blood was mine," he said.

A tourniquet stemmed the flow sufficiently for him to continue through the next scene. Then he was rushed to the hospital where eight stitches were put in the wound.

New Federal Office Prompted By Rhodes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Nixon's decision to establish an office of executive management in the White House was one of the proposals fed him by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

When Nixon first took office, he contacted Rhodes to see how Ohio had streamlined government. Many of Rhodes' proposals will be incorporated into the new office.

Rhodes suggested that one office should be set up to let state and local governments know what types of assistance is available from the federal government.

The White House, researching Rhodes' suggestion, discovered there were 1,019 domestic federal aid programs. Many of the programs are administered independently by different offices within the same federal department.

Rhodes had often complained about the amount of money it cost Ohioans just to fill out the forms the federal government required in such programs as aid-to-the-aged.

White House research has shown that in the community development category alone there are 176 different programs administered by 18 different agencies.

Rhodes pointed all this out to Nixon when the President met with him privately during the National Governors Conference in Colorado Springs last summer.

Nixon was so impressed with Rhodes' figures, he strayed from his prepared speech later that night to call attention to what the Ohio governor had pointed out. He promised to look into the matter.

The new office of executive management is the result.

liam O'Neill when he was named chief justice.

That selection may be one of the minor problems of the meeting.

Republican Chairman John Andrews is expected to tell the committee of his frustrating efforts to get John Herbert and Robin Turner off the fall ballot as nominees for attorney general and treasurer. Both men took campaign contributions from an officer of a firm involved in loans to big business by the state treasurer. Both have refused several requests to quit the ticket.

One such request came from the committee itself. Andrews delivered the request in person. Now the committee must decide whether—and how—to enforce its request.

Auditor Roger Cloud, GOP nominee for governor, is to appear before the committee. His subjects could range from his running mates to his views of a recent special audit of the treasurer's office. Cloud received a campaign contribution from a man who did business with the treasurer's office. He returned the contribution and said he has done no wrong but the committee may want to know how his position differs from that of Herbert and Turner. Herbert also returned his contribution but Turner spent his.

The special audit of the treasurer's office is of major concern to Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate. He fears it may affect his campaign and has asked twice that the state Republican party order an independent audit of state treasury books.

Committee members aren't certain how, or by what authority, this could be done. They may decide Tuesday.

Ohio Democrats see their chances of gaining control of the Statehouse next November as improving with every new development in the questioned contributions to Republican campaigns. Democrats also get a boost from special investigations made of the treasurer's office and of the state School Employees Retirement System.

Both matters have had a shattering effect on the Republican party organization in Ohio but Democrats reportedly rejected a campaign theme that it is the party to "bring us together again."

President Nixon beat them to that one.

Ohio's Republican congressmen reportedly fear that a backlash from the campaign contributions and treasury department audit may catch some of them. Republicans now have an 18-6 stranglehold on Ohio's 24 congressional seats.

The GOP congressmen reportedly fear that the state of affairs at home could cost Republicans one or two seats, perhaps from Ohio's metropolitan areas.

There is also the possibility that redistricting brought on by population shifts could cost Ohio one or two seats in Congress.

The combination could lower the Republican percentage of power in Ohio's congressional delegation.

Governor Reports $20 Million Surplus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes reported today that the state will have a surplus of more than $20 million at the end of the current fiscal year June 30, with all bills paid.

The excess, he said, would be spent on elementary and secondary education in the next school year.

New Federal Office Prompted By Rhodes

Dear Abby: Only She Can Tell If Hubby Cheats

DEAR ABBY: My husband is very good looking and is on the lying side of 50. He doesn't look like the swinging type, but I wouldn't put a thing past him. He gives a rather attractive, youngish divorcee, who works in his office building, a ride home nearly every evening. He doesn't accept any pay, but he does sometimes stop at her apartment for a drink (he says) now and then.

He's never more than half an hour late in getting home. Do you think he could be unfaithful to me in half an hour?

DEAR WIFE: I don't know. He's your husband, lady. Could he?

DEAR ABBY: Leonard and I have been married for 2 years. We plan to go east this summer (we live in California) to visit my grandparents and other relatives who have never met Leonard. They are good, but very conservative people.

My problem: Leonard has hair almost to his shoulders. I think he should cut it before he goes east. His hair has never been a sore point between us, but I feel that if he cuts it before he goes, he will make a better impression on my relatives. Leonard and I talked about it, and he doesn't want to cut his hair. He says if I loved him I wouldn't ask him to cut his hair. I say it will grow back in time, and it's not too much to ask. Can you help us reach a decision?

Governors Set Meet In Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some problems of the modern age — and a few old ones — are on the agenda for the ninth annual Midwest Governor Conference to be held here July 19-22.

At least 13 governors are reported to have accepted invitations to the meeting which embraces 15 states.

Topics on the tentative agenda include prevention of drug abuse; environmental controls; a business look at reorganization of the executive branch; OEO partnership with the states and problems in federal-state relations.

States included in the conference area are West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota.

Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas is to chair a panel discussion on responsibility of the states in the prevention of drug abuse and enforcing drug controls.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky will head a panel discussion on partnerships between the states and the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Other governors participating in the program will include Norbert T. Tiemann of Nebraska, Edgar D. Whitcomb of Indiana and Robert D. Ray of Iowa.

Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio is host.

Stabbing Scene Is Too Lifelike

MELBOURNE (AP) — The stabbing scene in "Julius Caesar" was just a bit too lifelike, or death-like, for actor Brian Muir.

Playing the Roman emperor, Muir slumped to the stage floor after being stabbed.

"Blood" from bags hidden in his clothing flowed freely — and so did his own. His assailants had wielded their knives overenthusiastically, wounding Brian in the arm.

"I lay there for the next 10 minutes of the scene wondering how much of the blood was mine," he said.

A touniquet stemmed the flow sufficiently for him to continue through the next scene. Then he was rushed to the hospital where eight stitches were put in the wound.

Valedictory Talk Right On Button

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — On commencement day at Newport Harbor High School, Roberta Magnusson was delivering the valedictory address.

She began a comment: "In spite of the insanity of day-to-day living..."

Miss Magnusson got no further.

At this moment Wednesday the automated sprinkler system at the high school stadium turned on. Nearly everyone present got a washing down until human hands corrected an error triggered by technology.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Nixon's decision to establish an office of executive management in the White House was one of the proposals fed him by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

When Nixon first took office, he contacted Rhodes to see how Ohio had streamlined government. Many of Rhodes' proposals will be incorporated into the new office.

Rhodes suggested that one office should be set up to let state and local governments know what types of assistance is available from the federal government.

The White House, researching Rhodes' suggestion, discovered there were 1,019 domestic federal aid programs. Many of the programs are administered independently by different offices within the same federal department.

Rhodes had often complained about the amount of money it cost Ohioans just to fill out the forms the federal government required in such programs as aid-to-the-aged.

White House research has shown that in the community development category alone there are 176 different programs administered by 18 different agencies.

Rhodes pointed all this out to Nixon when the President met with him privately during the National Governors Conference in Colorado Springs last summer.

Nixon was so impressed with Rhodes' figures, he strayed from his prepared speech later that night to call attention to what the Ohio governor had pointed out. He promised to look into the matter.

The new office of executive management is the result.

Republican party leaders have compiled a troublesome agenda for the meeting next Tuesday of the GOP State Central and Executive Committee.

A letter announcing the meeting to the 48 committee members mentions only one point of business—selection of a candidate for the state Supreme Court seat vacated by C. Wil-

Labor Troubles

CALCUTTA (AP) — Labor troubles forced 124 factories to close in the past year in West Bengal state, the state's labor minister Krishnapada Ghosh told the state assembly. The factories employed 27,371 workers, he said. Earlier, members had complained that during the one-year rule of the Communist dominated state government labor troubles had forced many factories to close.

liam O'Neill when he was named chief justice.

That selection may be one of the minor problems of the meeting.

Republican Chairman John Andrews is expected to tell the committee of his frustrating efforts to get John Herbert and Robin Turner off the fall ballot as nominees for attorney general and treasurer. Both men took campaign contributions from an officer of a firm involved in loans to big business by the state treasurer. Both have refused several requests to quit the ticket.

One such request came from the committee itself. Andrews delivered the request in person. Now the committee must decide whether—and how—to enforce its request.

Auditor Roger Cloud, GOP nominee for governor, is to appear before the committee. His subjects could range from his running mates to his views of a recent special audit of the treasurer's office. Cloud received a campaign contribution from a man who did business with the treasurer's office. He returned the contribution and said he has done no wrong but the committee may want to know how his position differs from that of Herbert and Turner. Herbert also returned his contribution but Turner spent his.

The special audit of the treasurer's office is of major concern to Rep. Robert Taft Jr., Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate. He fears it may affect his campaign and has asked twice that the state Republican party order an independent audit of state treasury books.

Committee members aren't certain how, or by what authority, this could be done. They may decide Tuesday.

Ohio Democrats see their chances of gaining control of the Statehouse next November as improving with every new development in the questioned contributions to Republican campaigns. Democrats also get a boost from special investigations made of the treasurer's office and of the state School Employees Retirement System.

Wedding Vows Solemnized In Double Ring Ceremony

MRS. WILLIAM MAYO DAMRON

The Rev. Wayne Wardell read the double ring service uniting in marriage Miss Ann Love Gearhart and Mr. William Mayo Damron, the afternoon of June 7 in the Mt. Pleasant Presbyterian Church, Kingston. The altar was decorated with vases of yellow and white daisies. Palms flanked the altar and yellow daisies, greenery and yellow ribbon marked the pews. Organist was Mrs. Carl Hohenstein.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry Gearhart of Kingston, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Damron, also of Kingston.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in an Empire styled sleeveless formal length gown of imported Swiss organdy, accented by applied shasta daisies of heavy embroidery. Her formal length veil of bridal illusion, sprinkled with appliques of white daisies, was attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a colonia bouquet of white daisies.

Miss Christie Edler, maid of honor, wore a sleeveless formal length gown of lime mist organdy and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Bridesmaids, Miss Nancy Search, cousin of the bride, and Miss Gina Damron, sister of the groom, were dressed identically to the maid of honor and carried matching bouquets.

Mr. Joseph Spradlin of Prestonburg, Ky., served his cousin as best man. Ushers were Mr. Richard Damron, brother of the groom, Mr. Robert Gearhart Jr., and Mr. William Gearhart, brothers of the bride.

A reception at Pickaway Arms immediately followed the ceremony. The wedding cake was encircled with daisies and greenery which extended to candelabra. Hostesses were Mrs. Mark Conaway, cousin of the bride, and Miss Patty Dumm.

The new Mrs. Damron is a graduate of Logan Elm High School and is attending the University of Eastern Kentucky. Mr. Damron, a graduate of McClain High School in Greenfield, is also attending the University of Eastern Kentucky.

The couple now resides at Richmond, Ky.

Shower Fetes Bride-Elect

Miss Karen Steele, bride-elect of Robert Spicer, was honored with a bridal shower recently. Hostess for the occasion was Joyce Newman. Pink and white streamers decorated the gift table.

Games played were won by Judy Unger, Marlene Schultz and Sue McNichols.

Guests were Jo Ann Martin, Ada Steele, Judy Johnston, Betty Cook and Kim, Nelle Swackhammer, Georgia Notestone, Marlene Schultz, Judy Unger and Kip.

Ruth Reid, Doris Disbennett, Susie Disbennett, Sue McNichols, Margaret Steele and Tony, Margie Overman, Marlene Thompson, Beverly Ward, Linda, Kathy, Dena, Tami and Terry Martin, Janet and Teresa Newman.

Unable to attend and sending gifts were Edith Kneece, Mary Rose, Joanne Graves, Barbara Sanchez, Audalene Poling, Karen Swackhammer, Sue Huffman, Edith Jones, Judy Hartranft, Vivian and Judy Spicer, Fern Smith, Opal Gilpen and Jenny Fetherolf.

Mader-Moorhead Wedding Plans Are Completed

Miss Mary Ludwig Mader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln S. Mader, 160 Pinckney St., and Mr. Thomas O. Moorhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian J. Moorhead, Findlay, have completed plans for their wedding.

The marriage will be an event of 2:30 p.m. August 22, in the First Presbyterian Church, Circleville, with the Rev. Henry A. Walters officiating.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Denver Mounts (Allegra Andrews) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Andrews, 229 E. Franklin St., have arrived at their new residence in Hopkinton, Mass.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Mrs. Bill Stout and Mrs. Cliff Hedges of Circleville, and Mrs. Richard Kissling of Oklahoma City, Okla., were luncheon guests Thursday of Mrs. Boyd Stout, Arbor Road.

A family dinner was held recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Williams, Logan Elm Village, honoring the birthday of Lori Williams, Don Nance and Mrs. George Williams.

Attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Don Nance, Jim Nance, Nick Nance, Mr. and Mrs. George Williams, Terry Williams, Mrs. Mae Alexander, Ashville, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Jones, Columbus.

Lawn Festival Rated Success

The Spring Lawn Festival held last week by the guilds of Berger Hospital netted over $600 for the hospital. Even with the threat of rain all day the general enthusiasm of the public and workers didn't falter.

Raffle winners were Nancy Schneider, the doll from Guild 20; Charles Rittinger, groceries from Guild 30, and Sheri Tiney, an Indian costume from Guild 45.

Co-hostesses of the event extended appreciation to all who helped make the event so successful.

Police-Students Improve Relations

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The organizer of a six-week experiment aimed at improving relations between Stanford University students and police says it began in suspicion and ended in exchanges of dinner invitations.

"I saw students persecuting the police and the police treating students like animals. I knew I had to do something," said Michael Diamond, 25, who thought up what he called the "police-student depolarization" experiment.

For three weeks, 40 student volunteers rode in police cruisers in their spare time. The next three weeks, 25 police officers attended meetings at Stanford's psychology department to talk with students and teachers.

Police and students changed their opinions of each other when they got to know one another, said Diamond, a graduate psychology student.

The Adult Reading World

Personal memoirs of gentlemen of the press are generally greeted with warmth. In the first place, years of experience in writing for mass consumption seems a guarantee of readability. Second, newsmen have glimpsed the great, have sat in the front row, and they convey a pleasant sense of urgency in their words.

Hal Borland, editorial writer, has done a superb job with "Country Editor's Boy." He relates the joys and pains of publishing a small country weekly in Colorado in the days of Taft and Wilson. His father operated on a shoestring, but he had big ideas. Borland relates his struggle to purchase a new press and his big campaign for planting trees to shade dusty streets. Between stints as printer's devil, young Borland was allowed freedom to roam the countryside. His descriptions of the western plains are so beautifully inserted that one is not aware that Borland is a "nature writer." He is, though, one of the best. His "Hill Country Harvest", published in 1967, is pure delight. It was named a best book in the field of natural history.

"North Toward Home" is the unusual autobiography of thirty-two-year-old Willie Morris. That is not to say he is presumptuous, for he writes with a fine style and he has a great deal to say. He is the editor of Harper's. Quite an accomplishment for one so young.

The New York Times is the subject of many current books. Latest and perhaps most comprehensive is "The Kingdom and the Power" by Gay Talese. It covers that great paper in all its aspects. In "Raymond of the Times" Francis Brown has written a new biography of its founder.

"The Working Press, edited by RUTH Adler, tells the stories behind the great stories printed in this metropolitan daily. "Printer's Devil to Publisher: Adolph S. Ochs of the New York Times" was written by Doris Faber for young adults.

"Deadline Every Minute" by Joe Alex Morris is the history of the United Press. In it we read of Raymond Clapper, Walter Cronkite, Westbrook Pegler, H. Allen Smith, and others. "The Pulitzer Prize Story" is a collection of the best news stories of this century. William L. Rivers discusses the influence of the press in "The Opinion Makers." "Citizen Hearst" by W. A. Swanberg still stands as the definitive work on one of America's most flamboyant and powerful publishers.

Agnew Supports 18-Year-Olds Getting To Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he is encouraged to see young people working within the nation's political system. He said 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote.

In a speech Wednesday before a public affairs seminar sponsored by the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., he said, "There are a few who attack the system—I think only a few—and demand its elimination."

"But I have been greatly encouraged in recent months by those students and other young people who have announced their resolve to work, as they put it, within the system," Agnew said.

He said lowering the voting age would be one means of enabling young people to be more productive.

Social Security Answers

Q. I get social security benefits and I expect to move soon. I don't want any delay in getting my check after I move. What should I do?

A. You can notify any social security office in the United States. But, you also must be sure to notify your post office of your change of address, and ask them to forward your mail. Then if the social security office doesn't receive your new address early enough to change it on your next check, the post office will send your check to your new address.

Q. When I notify a social security office about my change of address, what will they want to know besides my old and new address?

A. The social security office will ask: (1) the name of the person or persons about whom the report is being made, (2) the correct social security claim number. It is a nine digit number followed by a letter A, B, C, D, E, F, or H. This number is shown on all letters sent to you about the benefits you are receiving. (3) the date you are moving.

Q. Are there any restrictions to receive social security checks out of the United States?

A. Yes. U. S. Treasury Department regulations prohibit mailing U. S. Government checks to certain countries. This list is subject to change from time to time, and anyone leaving the country should check before doing so.

Implied Warranty

CHICAGO (AP) — Home builders and contractors, confronted already with rising costs and tight markets, now are finding they've got another problem — they may be held liable for damages for improperly built homes.

Recently the Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the allowance of recovery for breach of warranty because of the improper installation of the heating and air-conditioning ductwork by the home builder. A virtual litany of litigation has been raised against home builders and contractors for faulty workmanship, and the trend is toward more cases being brought against the builders of improperly constructed homes.

yours is the hand that lights your child's face

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security . . . that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light . . . and held his son's hand!

Sunday — Father's Day — in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God . . . experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

Social Security Answers

Q. I get social security benefits and I expect to move soon. I don't want any delay in getting my check after I move. What should I do?

A. You can notify any social security office in the United States. But, you also must be sure to notify your post office of your change of address, and ask them to forward your mail. Then if the social security office doesn't receive your new address early enough to change it on your next check, the post office will send your check to your new address.

Q. When I notify a social security office about my change of address, what will they want to know besides my old and new address?

A. The social security office will ask: (1) the name of the person or persons about whom the report is being made, (2) the correct social security claim number. It is a nine digit number followed by a letter A, B, C, D, E, F, or H. This number is shown on all letters sent to you about the benefits you are receiving. (3) the date you are moving.

Q. Are there any restrictions to receive social security checks out of the United States?

A. Yes. U. S. Treasury Department regulations prohibit mailing U.S. Government checks to certain countries. This list is subject to change from time to time, and anyone leaving the country should check before doing so.

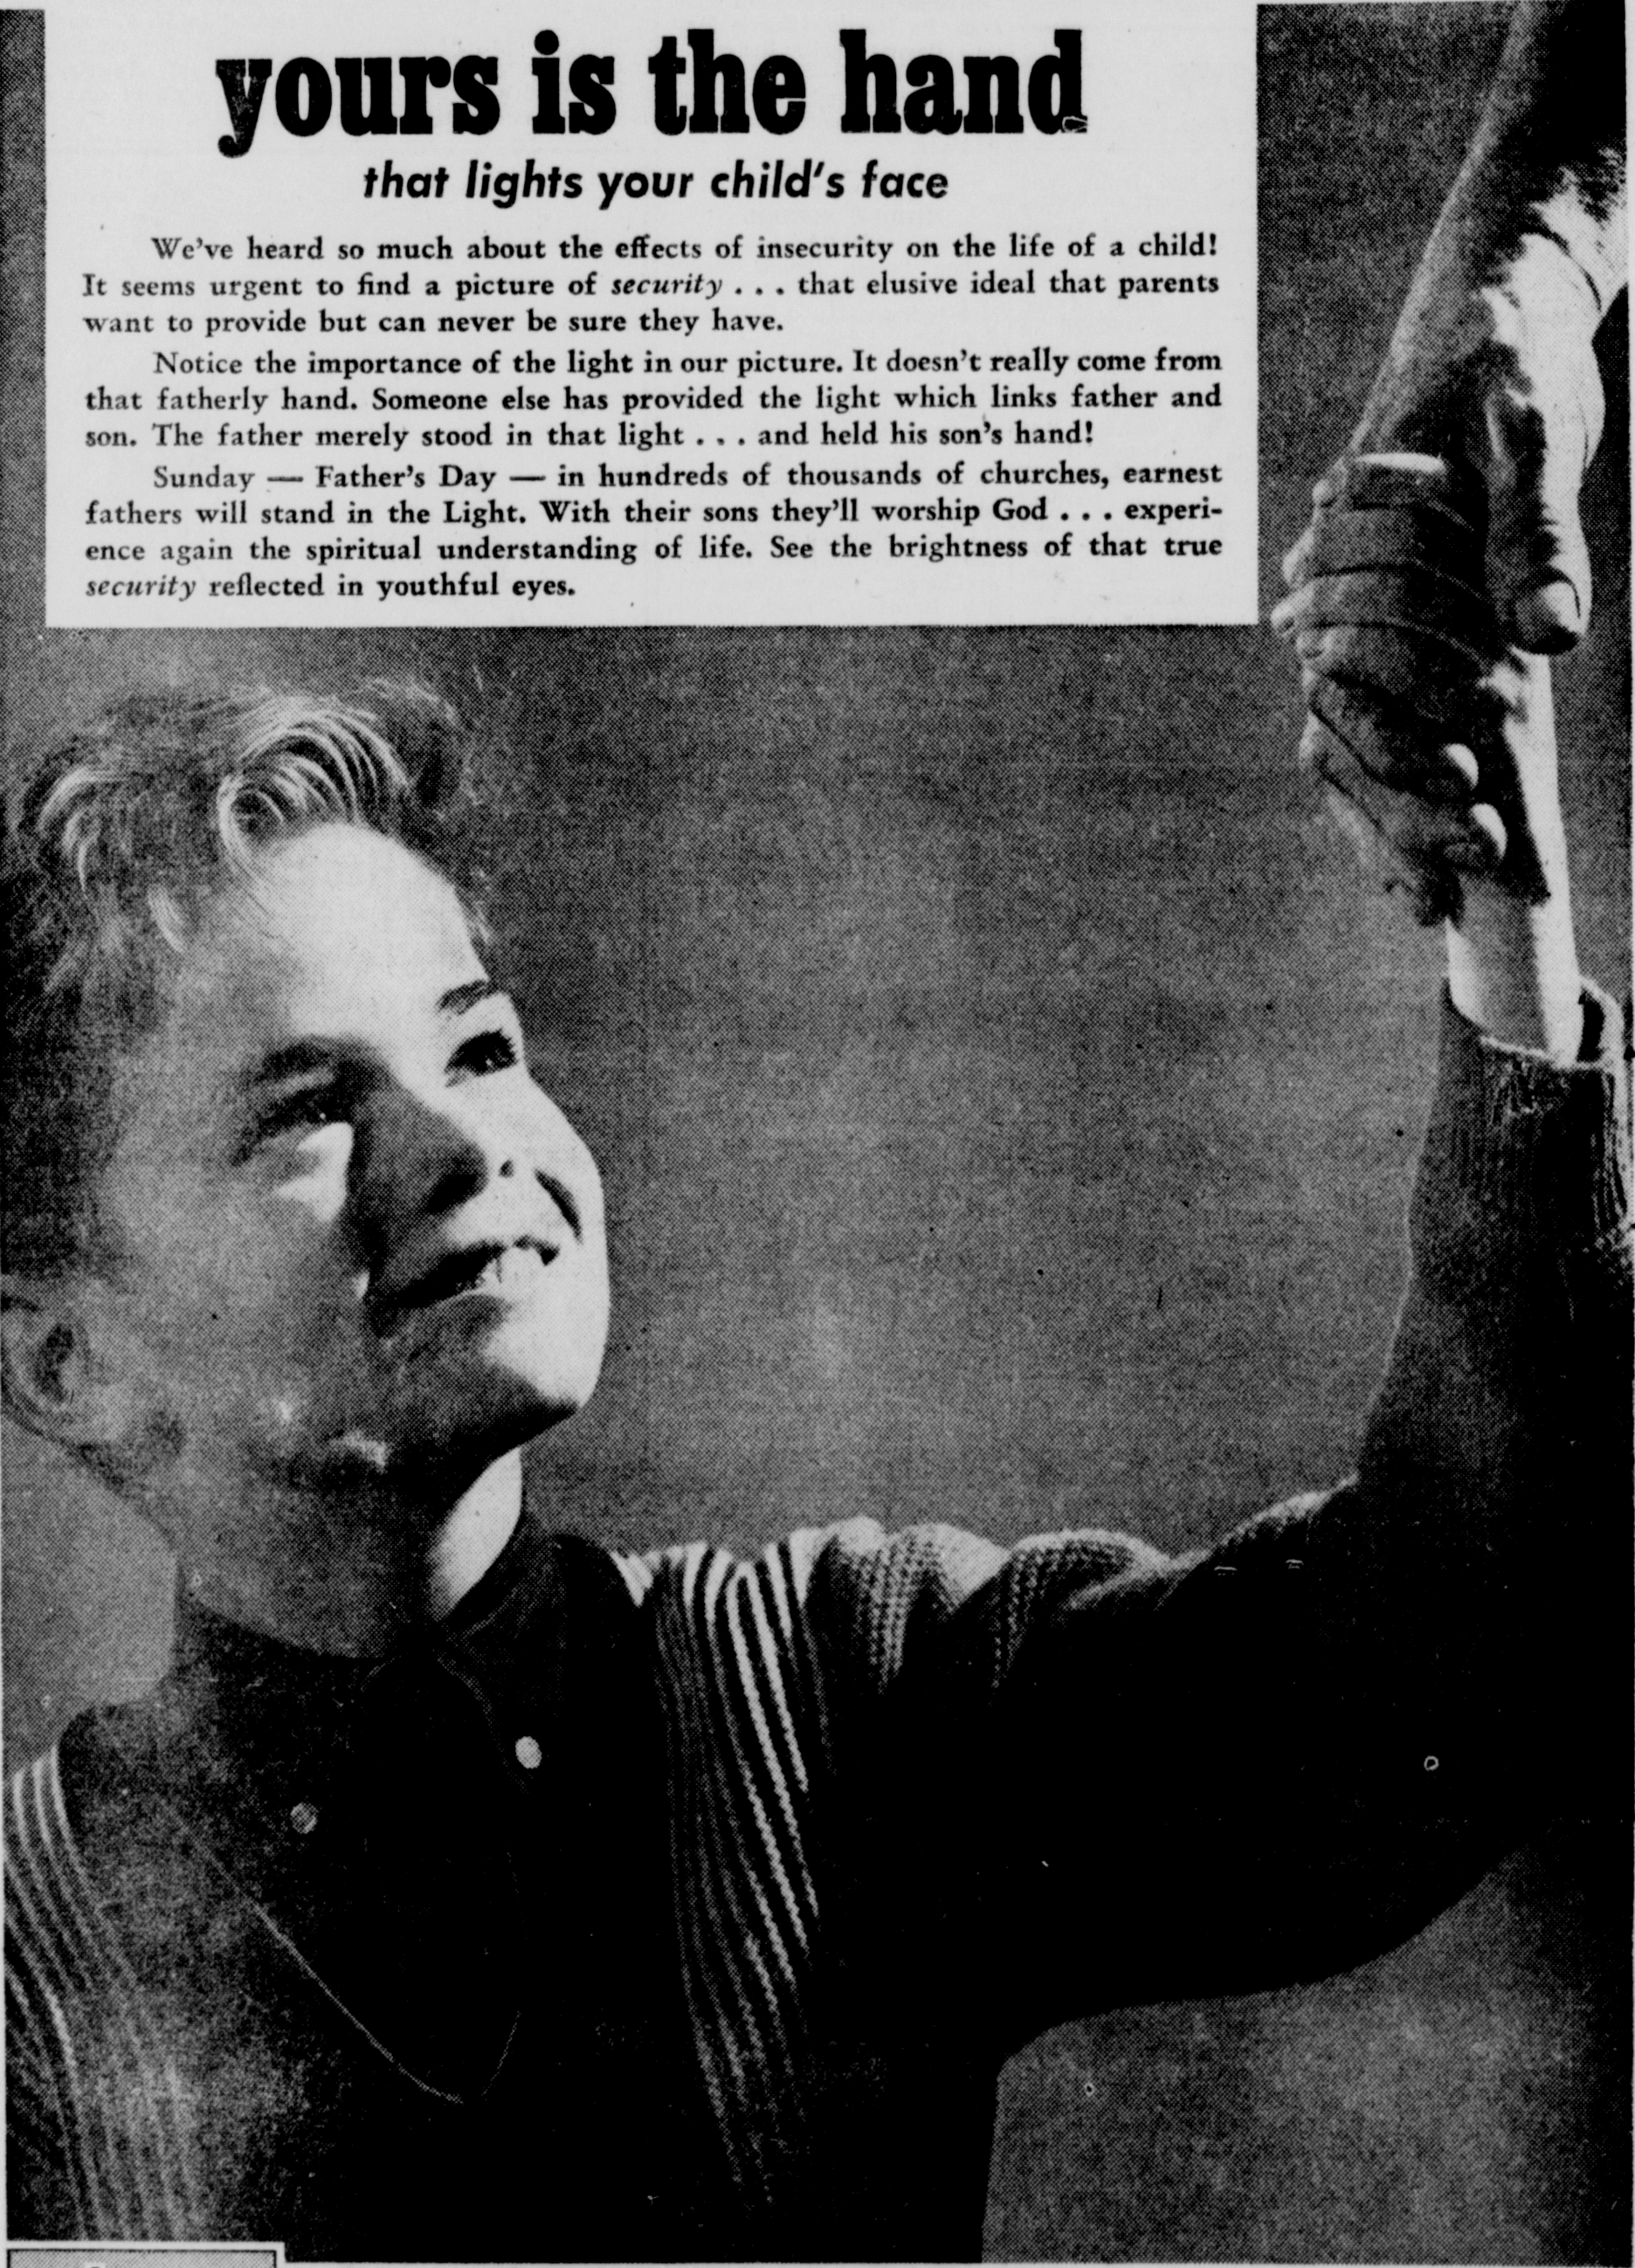

Implied Warranty
CHICAGO (AP) — Home builders and contractors, confronted already with rising costs and tight markets, now are finding they've got another problem — they may be held liable for damages for improperly built homes. Recently the Arkansas Supreme Court upheld the allowance of recovery for breach of warranty because of the improper installation of the heating and air-conditioning ductwork by the home builder. A virtual litany of litigation has been raised against home builders and contractors for faulty workmanship, and the trend is toward more cases being brought against the builders of improperly constructed homes.

yours is the hand that lights your child's face

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security . . . that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light . . . and held his son's hand!

Sunday — Father's Day — in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God . . . experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

Christians in the World

CHRISTIANS' RELATIONSHIPS WITH OTHERS

Scripture—Romans 12, 13.

By R. H. RAMSEY

AS WITH most of Paul's epistles, the opening chapters of the one addressed to the church at Rome are devoted to the presentation of the great truths of Christian faith, followed by exhortations to the kind of lives Christians lead in the light of these truths.

Paul begins his description with the body, entreating that it be presented as a living sacrifice to God. He does not mean that we should deliberately sacrifice life itself, but that we should become so wholly committed to the way and the will of the Lord that our minds and bodies become instruments of righteousness and holiness for Him.

The Christian then totally rejects the works of the flesh—adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, emulation, wrath, strife, envy, murder, drunkenness, etc.—and displays the fruit of the Spirit—love, joy, peace, long-suffering, as well as his own. Loving our brothers means sharing their sorrows as well as their joys. If we truly love, we will sincerely rejoice or sorrow.

As children of God we are not to think lofty thoughts about ourselves for an exalted sense of self-importance is deadly to spiritual life. We must respect and honor those worthy of them, but should not cultivate the high or the low to the exclusion of the other. The poor and needy are equal with the rich and powerful, if we would have proper fellowship with the Lord.

Christians must live in peace with others, making sure that they do not contribute to strife and contention through words or deeds. This does not mean that truth or principle should be sacrificed to preserve the peace. But as far as possible, consistent with our higher obligations and interests, we must endeavor to promote peace and avoid giving offense or avenging injuries. We are to live in gentleness, goodness, faith, temperance and meekness. This, then, is our living sacrifice, holy and well-pleasing to the Lord and our spiritual obligation.

In their response to persecutors, Christians should follow the example and the teaching of Christ and bless, rather than curse, those who persecute them—not an easy thing to do when instinct urges revenge.

But the spirit of "getting even" is contrary to the Christian way of life. It is difficult to turn our enemies over to God, for He may delay His judgment too long to satisfy us, or not punish as severely as we think He should. Nonetheless, the Christian is not to become the judge and executioner. The judgment and punishment of wrongdoers is the province of a righteous and impartial God.

We are commanded to love as Jesus loved, bearing good will to all men, for their sakes. Based on copyrighted outlines produced by the Divisions of Christian Education, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., and used by permission.

peace with all men, and when we encounter enemies, feed them if they are hungry, give them water if they are thirsty, eliminate them by turning them into friends.

Turning briefly to the Christian's relationship with the state, Paul affirms that almost any form of government is better than total anarchy. Loyalty and submission to one's government is a Christian duty, despite the character of its leaders. But this does not preclude attempts to improve that government. In submitting to civil government a Christian cannot disobey God's laws or his own conscience. But if refusing to comply with a law involves a penalty, the Christian must be prepared to endure it patiently.

A Christian owes no man anything but love, for when love becomes the controlling factor in our relationships with others, we work no ill to any man and the law is fulfilled.

This touches on an old, running conflict over whether theology and morals involve only conditions of individuals, or also conditions in their societies.

Agnew Comes Under Fire From Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — When Vice President Spiro T. Agnew criticized the National Council of Churches a few weeks ago, he was tangling with an old issue in religious life and inferentially knocking the position of his own denomination.

He also set off some ecclesiastical sparks.

Agnew is an Episcopalian, and the Episcopal Church—along with most other major Protestant and Orthodox denominations—is an active participant in the National Council, a cooperative body of Christian churches.

The vice president "slurred his own church," as well as 32 other denominations and their Sunday schools, commented the Rev. Dr. David Hunter, the council's deputy general secretary, and an Episcopalian, too.

Agnew, in criticizing the council's concern with such matters as environmental pollution, also was challenging a view shared by major churches, Protestant and Catholic—that religious commitment demands efforts for wholesomeness in all spheres of life, both social and personal.

"More and more, Christians have come to recognize that concern for social justice, for peace and human dignity is part of the Gospel message and goes along with concern for the individual," said the Rev. Dr. Ralph M. Holdeman, the council's evangelism director.

The vice president, in a recent speech in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., criticized the conduct of modern youth as the result of permissive parents who "threw discipline out the window," and added:

"They are the children dropped off by their parents in Sunday school to hear the modern Gospel from a progressive preacher more interested in fighting pollution than fighting evil; you know, one of those pleasant clergymen who lifts his weekly sermons out of old letters from a National Council of Churches that has cast morality and theology aside as not relevant and set as its goal on earth the recognition of Red China and the preservation of the Florida alligators."

This touches on an old, running conflict over whether theology and morals involve only conditions of individuals, or also conditions in their societies.

Complaints still are common that the churches should stay out of social issues.

A Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. Gregory Baum, commenting on the vice president's remarks in the St. Louis Review, a diocesan weekly, says the "Catholic Church today in her official teaching agrees with

Congress Asked For Emergency Financing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced by one of the worst appropriation jams in history, Congress was asked Thursday to provide limited emergency financing for the entire government for the year starting July 1.

The financing was called for in a resolution sent to the House floor by the Appropriations Committee. It would be a one-month measure but could be expected to be extended month by month.

The appropriation crisis stems from the fact that not one of the 14 annual money bills has cleared Congress and none is likely to become law before the new government year starts next month.

Logan County Probe Sought

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP) — Paul E. Carr, Democratic candidate for county commissioner, has asked State Auditor Roger Cloud to look into what he contends may be the loss of about $22,000 in state and county funds from the Logan County Clerk of Court's office.

Officials in Cloud's office said they plan to begin their normal biennial audit of the books in the next few weeks, but denied any knowledge of such losses. In a letter to Carr, Carr noted that a former employee in the clerk's office had pleaded guilty April 21 to a charge of criminal conversion of county funds.

This touches on an old, running conflict over whether theology and morals involve only conditions of individuals, or also conditions in their societies.

Complaints still are common that the churches should stay out of social issues.

A Roman Catholic theologian, the Rev. Gregory Baum, commenting on the vice president's remarks in the St. Louis Review, a diocesan weekly, says the "Catholic Church today in her official teaching agrees with the National Council of Churches (and the World Council) on the social and political commitment implicit in faith."

He says it "is impossible to follow the Lord Jesus Christ and shrug one's shoulders" at "social evils which we suffer and for which we are, in part, responsible."

Dr. Hunter said of the vice president's differentiation between pollution and evil: "An Episcopalian ought to be able to discern evil better than that, and a vice president should recognize a national priority when he sees one."

As for Agnew's reference to Red China, the council has taken only a qualified position, asking the government to "study the advisability" of opening diplomatic channels with that country. Roman Catholic bishops this month also commended "efforts to develop working relationships" with mainland China. The National Council includes most major bodies of Presbyterians, Methodists, Lutherans, Baptists, Christians (Disciples), United Church (Congregationalists), Episcopalians, Eastern Orthodox—and smaller bodies such as Quakers, of which President Nixon is one.

Premium Hike In Medicare Is Coming

st December 27 many newspapers carried a headline, "Medicare Premium Hike Planned." This referred to the announcement, on that day, by Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Robert H. Finch, that on July 1, 1970 premium costs for Medicare Part B would increase from $4 monthly to $5.30.

Harry Bieber, district social security manager at Chillicothe, wishes to remind all Medicare Part B beneficiaries that on July 1, 1970, social security checks will reflect the new monthly premium. Other enrolled retirees who do not receive social security payments will receive an increase in their monthly or quarterly billing.

Bieber explained that Medicare Part B is the voluntary part of the Federal Government's insurance program which permits all citizens age 65, as well as qualified aliens, to purchase medical insurance benefits. Half of the premium cost of this program is paid by the Federal Government from the general fund. It pays reasonable charges for doctor bills and for a variety of medical expenses in and out of the hospital.

Bieber stated that the $5.30 monthly premium would remain in effect for at least one year. Each December the secretary of HEW is empowered to review the trust fund from which medical insurance benefits are paid, and establish a new monthly rate, if needed, effective July 1 of the following year.

Last December when Secretary Finch established the new premium, he stressed that almost half of the increase was needed to finance the program at current levels of operation. A premium raise had been recommended by the Social Security Administration in December 1968 but was not enacted. Thus, this increase is, in effect, a double one.

The balance of the premium rise is to cover contingencies such as estimated increases in costs of service, higher utilization of services by beneficiaries, and restoring the trust fund to a safe level.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio:

Cooler and drier weather arrived in Ohio Thursday night. Temperatures and humidities were at a much more comfortable level during the night. Early morning readings ranged from 57 degrees at Toledo to 67 at Marietta and Ironton.

Westerly and northwesterly winds will continue to bring cool air into the state and high temperatures this afternoon are expected to reach only into the low 80s in the southern counties and remain in the 70s in other parts of the state. Lows tonight will be in the 50s.

Cloudiness will spread back into southern Ohio Saturday and bring a threat of showers to that part of the state. By Sunday there will be some chance of showers generally with temperatures on the mild side.

FORECASTS

OHIO — Fair north, increasing cloudiness south and cool tonight. Lows mostly in the 50s. Saturday variable cloudiness north and central and considerable cloudiness with a chance of a few showers south and little temperature change. Highs in the 70s.

NORTHWEST INLAND — WEST LAKE SHORE. EAST LAKE SHORE. NORTHEAST OHIO — Fair and cool tonight. Lows around 50 Saturday variable cloudiness with little temperature change. Highs in the low 70s. Outlook Sunday: Chance of showers and mild.

WEST CENTRAL & CENTRAL OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and rather cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Considerable cloudiness with little temperature change Saturday. High in the mid and upper 70s. Outlook Sunday chance of showers and mild.

Shultz Sees Unemployment Continuing Rise This Summer

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz says unemployment probably will climb above the 5 per cent rate recorded in May, the highest monthly figure since 1965.

The prediction came in Shultz' first interview since he was named by President Nixon to head a new White House superagency, the Office of Management and Budget. The change is due July 1.

Shultz told the Associated Press his department's weekly tally of unemployment compensation claims is still rising, indicating the number of jobless persons will go up in some of the coming months.

The secretary criticized Congress for failing to provide measures he said Nixon had requested to cushion the impact on employment from a cutback in defense and aerospace spending and the anti-inflation effort.

And he dismissed any likelihood of a conflict between himself and John D. Ehrlichman, the tough-minded presidential assistant named by Nixon to head the other new White House superagency, the Domestic Council.

The questions and answers: Q: There's speculation your new job will concentrate a great deal more power in the White House in matters of domestic spending and the economy. Is that a fair judgment?

A: No, I don't think so. I think this question of where power is and how it is moving is very difficult to analyze. The fact is things are flowing in all directions. Things are flowing toward the White House, things are flowing away from the White House toward the Cabinet departments. We're making a great effort in the Nixon administration to move control of things more in the direction of the states and cities.

Q: Do you think this will give a more effective expenditure and management control?

A: Certainly that is the hope, and I expect—I feel confident—that we will be able to make the government operate more effectively. Now, that certainly doesn't mean trying to have more things actually done in the White House. The idea is to try to get greater clarity into the operations and we'll be trying to do that.

Q: There's been some criticism to the effect there might be overlaps and conflicts rather than clarification of responsibilities.

A: As between who and who?

Q: Between Ehrlichman and Shultz.

A: Sure. Well, the distinctions among what you do and how you do it and how well you do it, and so on—obviously these are words that do have content and meaning, and at the same time there's an awful lot of how, and how well, in any what. And there's an awful lot of what in figuring out how and evaluating it, so that these things are all connected.

Now, I think in addition to what formal lines of specialized areas we develop we also will have to work closely together as individuals. It would have to be practically on a day-to-day basis to be sure that things are clear and that each knows what the other is doing, and we're proceeding that way.

I've noticed that people have the idea—they seem to have the notion that one wants to draw activities to his operation, and my observation in the White House is sort of the reverse—that there's so much to do, and you're anxious to get it done well, and if you can find somebody else who can do it well and get him to do it, you're just that much ahead of the game.

Q: Mr. secretary, your new job gives you a great deal of say on the whole domestic spending of $130-odd billion. Do you see any real possibility of cutting expenditures, of balancing the budget?

A: Of course the federal government's expenditures, taking them as a whole lot of bits and pieces, some are going down and some going up; there are always some being cut, so that is always a possibility. There have been considerable cuts in the past year, some substantial ones in the defense budget for example. So, sure, I think one of the things we ought to be doing is to see where we can cut things down and still have an effective operation for the goals we're seeking.

Now as to the over-all balance of this budget, I'm not enough into the details to have any more than a general kind of judgment on estimates that the budget director has announced. As far as I can see I have no reason to question those, and he is expecting a small deficit in fiscal 1970 and '71.

Q: With the trend of revenues downward, especially in corporate profits, the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation sees the prospect of a $4.5 billion deficit for fiscal '71, if the President gets his request for revenue-raising legislation, and a $9 billion deficit if he does not. This compares with the $1.3 billion that the last budget revision shows. Have you been able to find out why there is greater pessimism on Capitol Hill?

A: I haven't studied that staff report in detail at all, I'm still trying to catch my breath—and I don't really take this job over until the first of July anyway—but I'm sure I'll be looking into those things and studying the budget independently and trying to make as accurate estimates for the President as I possibly can.

Q: How do you see the outlook on inflation? I believe you've been saying that you expected the price trend to slow a little bit by the end of the year?

A: I think so. I think it is clear enough that the inflation we inherited is a very tough thing to get hold of. Tougher than I thought it would be.

On the other hand I believe that the process of taking hold gradually, not slamming the brakes on too hard, is the right approach. I think that we are beginning to see some signs of it working. It's a hard road, there's no doubt about it.

Q: There are some, in organized labor particularly, who think perhaps the brakes have been slammed on a little too hard, they cite the unemployment figures up 1.3 million or so. How do you feel about that? What can be done about that?

A: Well, I think that unemployment is not desirable, and we should be working to keep it down. We've been working on that in the administration and the Labor Department from the beginning. We have proposed a number of things to deal with it.

We've made a strong effort to get the Congress to strengthen the unemployment insurance system, we've had that out here for about a year now. We still await enactment of that, and we want it. We have a manpower training act that's been before the Congress for almost a year now with no action on it. That would be triggered in now, if Congress had acted.

So we've put a lot of things out there to deal with the unemployment problem and I just wish that some of these things would get enacted. The kind of problem we're dealing with has two dimensions to it.

On the one hand, you have this process of slowing the economy and trying to get control of inflation, and doing that gradually; and it has this undesirable fallout of unemployment, and we're trying to deal with that. At the same time, there have been substantial reductions in defense expenditures and these have had quite an impact, particularly in the aerospace industry. And so you have unemployment that is not the result of the slowing of the economy particularly; it's more the result of changing the priorities, away from defense spending and toward non-defense spending.

Q: When the former defense spending goes back into the domestic economy, do you think that will put those people back to work?

A: Sure. Oh, yes.

Q: Do you think we should be prepared for higher rates of unemployment than the present 5 per cent before we can see the improvement?

A: We have these monthly readings; the last one was 5 per cent. That's based on a sample of households throughout the country. We also have a continuing weekly reading on insured unemployment, and administrative tabulation of all those receiving unemployment insurance. This represents a high proportion, about 60 per cent to two-thirds, of the total unemployment. The underlying weekly trend here has been up in the insured unemployment, although the rate of increase, year over year, has diminished somewhat in recent weeks. But

I would say the underlying picture you get from looking at these weekly readings is that it is continuing to rise, and so I suppose some of those monthly sample estimates will be above 5 per cent.

NEED ALUMINUM SIDING FOR YOUR HOME?

Let us show you the biggest difference between Alcan siding and ordinary siding.

It isn't the price.

You're only going to buy siding once. You might as well buy it right.

The right style for your home, for example. Alcan offers the broadest, most exciting range of styles, colors, textures and profiles. We've got them all for you to choose from. And it costs no more to get the siding style that adds most to your home's beauty.

The right quality is something else again. You can't take it for granted. Although some very well known aluminum companies lend their names to siding, that doesn't always mean they make the finished siding. Some do. Others may only supply their metal to a siding manufacturer. On the other hand, Alcan makes siding—all the way from bauxite mines to the completely finished siding. And Alcan's lowest-priced line has Alcan's famous 6-stage finish that will not chip, blister or peel for 30 years or more!

For more differences, give us a call. You won't be obligated in the least.

Premium Hike In Medicare Is Coming

At December 27 many newspapers carried a headline, "Medicare Premium Hike Planned." This referred to the announcement, on that day, by Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Robert H. Finch, that on July 1, 1970 premium costs for Medicare Part B would increase from $4 monthly to $5.30.

Harry Bieber, district social security manager at Chillicothe, wishes to remind all Medicare Part B beneficiaries that on July 1, 1970, social security checks will reflect the new monthly premium. Other enrolled retirees who do not receive social security payments will receive an increase in their monthly or quarterly billing.

Bieber explained that Medicare Part B is the voluntary part of the Federal Government's insurance program which permits all citizens age 65, as well as qualified aliens, to purchase medical insurance benefits. Half of the premium cost of this program is paid by the Federal Government from the general fund. It pays reasonable charges for doctor bills and for a variety of medical expenses in and out of the hospital.

Bieber stated that the $5.30 monthly premium would remain in effect for at least one year. Each December the secretary of HEW is empowered to review the trust fund from which medical insurance benefits are paid, and establish a new monthly rate, if needed, effective July 1 of the following year.

Last December when Secretary Finch established the new premium, he stressed that almost half of the increase was needed to finance the program at current levels of operation. A premium raise had been recommended by the Social Security Administration in December 1968 but was not enacted. Thus, this increase is, in effect, a double one.

The balance of the premium rise is to cover contingencies such as estimated increases in costs of service, higher utilization of services by beneficiaries, and restoring the trust fund to a safe level.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio:

Cooler and drier weather arrived in Ohio Thursday night. Temperatures and humidities were at a much more comfortable level during the night. Early morning readings ranged from 57 degrees at Toledo to 67 at Marietta and Ironton.

Westerly and northwesterly winds will continue to bring cool air into the state and high temperatures this afternoon are expected to reach only into the low 80s in the southern counties and remain in the 70s in other parts of the state. Lows tonight will be in the 50s.

Cloudiness will spread back into southern Ohio Saturday and bring a threat of showers to that part of the state. By Sunday there will be some chance of showers generally with temperatures on the mild side.

— FORECASTS —

OHIO — Fair north, increasing cloudiness south and cool tonight. Lows mostly in the 50s. Saturday variable cloudiness north and central and considerable cloudiness with a chance of a few showers south and little temperature change. Highs in the 70s.

NORTH WEST INLAND, WEST LAKE SHORE, EAST LAKE SHORE, NORTHEAST OHIO — Fair and cool tonight. Lows around 50 Saturday variable cloudiness with little temperature change. Highs in the low 70s. Outlook Sunday: Chance of showers and mild.

WEST CENTRAL & CENTRAL OHIO — Increasing cloudiness and rather cool tonight. Lows in the 50s. Considerable cloudiness with little temperature change Saturday. High in the mid and upper 70s. Outlook Sunday chance of showers and mild.

Tony Franciosa, Wife Divorced

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Anthony Franciosa and his wife of nine years, Judith, have ended their marriage.

Superior Court granted a divorce Thursday and ordered the 41-year-old actor to pay $500 monthly support for the couple's 6-year-old daughter, Nina.

Franciosa, who has been married three times, is a former husband of actress Shelly Winters.

Shultz Sees Unemployment Continuing Rise This Summer

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz says unemployment probably will climb above the 5 per cent rate recorded in May, the highest monthly figure since 1965.

The prediction came in Shultz' first interview since he was named by President Nixon to head a new White House superagency, the Office of Management and Budget. The change is due July 1.

Shultz told the Associated Press his department's weekly tally of unemployment compensation claims is still rising, indicating the number of jobless persons will go up in some of the coming months.

The secretary criticized Congress for failing to provide measures he said Nixon had requested to cushion the impact on employment from a cutback in defense and aerospace spending and the anti-inflation effort.

And he dismissed any likelihood of a conflict between himself and John D. Ehrlichman, the tough-minded presidential assistant named by Nixon to head the new White House superagency, the Domestic Council.

The questions and answers: Q: There's speculation your new job will concentrate a great deal more power in the White House in matters of domestic spending and the economy. Is that a fair judgment?

A: No, I don't think so. I think this question of where power is and how it is moving is very difficult to analyze. The fact is things are flowing in all directions. Things are flowing toward the White House, things are flowing away from the White House toward the Cabinet departments. We're making a great effort in the Nixon administration to move control of things more in the direction of the states and cities.

Q: Do you think this will give a more effective expenditure and management control?

A: Certainly that is the hope, and I expect—I feel confident—that we will be able to make the government operate more effectively. Now, that certainly doesn't mean trying to have more things actually done in the White House. The idea is to try to get greater clarity into the operations and we'll be trying to do that.

Q: There's been some criticism to the effect there might be overlaps and conflicts rather than clarification of responsibilities.

A: As between who and who? Q: Between Ehrlichman and Shultz.

A: Sure. Well, the distinctions among what you do and how you do it and how well you do it and so on—obviously these are words that do have content and meaning, and at the same time there's an awful lot of how, and how well, in any what. And there's an awful lot of what in figuring out how and evaluating it, so that these things are all connected.

Now, I think in addition to what formal lines of specialized areas we develop we also will have to work closely together as individuals. It would have to be practically on a day-to-day basis to be sure that things are clear and that each knows what the other is doing, and we're proceeding that way.

I've noticed that people have the idea—they seem to have the notion that one wants to draw activities to his operation, and my observation in the White House is sort of the reverse—that there's so much to do, and you're anxious to get it done well, and if you can find somebody else who can do it well and get him to do it, you're just that much ahead of the game.

Q: Mr. secretary, your new job gives you a great deal of say on the whole domestic spending of $130-odd billion. Do you see any real possibility of cutting expenditures, of balancing the budget?

A: Of course the federal government's expenditures, taking them as a whole lot of bits and pieces, some are going down and some going up; there are always some being cut, so that is always a possibility. There have been considerable cuts in the past year, some substantial ones in the defense budget for example. So, sure, I think one of the things we ought to be doing is to see where we can cut things down and still have an effective operation for the goals we're seeking.

Now as to the over-all balance of this budget, I'm not enough into the details to have any more than a general kind of judgment on estimates that the budget director has announced. As far as I can see I have no reason to question those, and he is expecting a small deficit in fiscal 1970 and '71.

Q: With the trend of revenues downward, especially in corporate profits, the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation staff sees the prospect of a $4.5 billion deficit for fiscal '71, if the President gets his requested revenue-raising legislation, and a $9 billion deficit if he does not. This compares with the $1.3 billion that the last budget revision shows. Have you been able to find out why there is greater pessimism on Capitol Hill?

A: I haven't studied that staff report in detail at all. I'm still trying to catch my breath—and I don't really take this job over until the first of July anyway—but I'm sure I'll be looking into those things and studying the budget independently and trying to make as accurate estimates for the President as I possibly can.

Q: How do you see the outlook on inflation? I believe you've been saying that you expected the price trend to slow a little bit by the end of the year?

A: I think so. I think it is clear enough that the inflation we inherited is a very tough thing to get hold of. Tougher than I thought it would be.

On the other hand I believe that the process of taking hold gradually, not slamming the brakes on too hard, is the right approach. I think that we are beginning to see some signs of it working. It's a hard road, there's no doubt about it.

Q: There are some, in organized labor particularly, who think perhaps the brakes have been slammed on a little too hard, they cite the unemployment figures up 1.3 million or so. How do you feel about that? What can be done about that?

A: Well, I think that unemployment is not desirable, and we should be working to keep it down. We've been working on that in the administration and the Labor Department from the beginning. We have proposed a number of things to deal with it.

We've made a strong effort to get the Congress to strengthen the unemployment insurance system, we've had that out there for about a year now. We still await enactment of that, and we want it. Tony Jacklin Takes Lead In U.S. Open; Likes Wind

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — England's Tony Jacklin compares playing an unfamiliar, wind-blown golf course with traveling abroad—one must adjust. But Jacklin must have thought the par-72, 7,151-yard Hazeltine National Golf Club was like home the way he adjusted and vaulted into the lead with a one-under-par 71 before today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"If I go to a new country," said Jacklin, "I adjust to its food and its habits. When I play a new course, like this one, I try to adjust to its characteristics." The rest of the star-filled field didn't adapt to 40 mile-per-hour winds that slammed into Hazeltine and sent almost half of the 105 man field past 83 after Thursday's first round.

Jacklin, with the forceful winds reminding him of English courses where he learned the game, adjusted so effectively that he was the only man below par. No one else reached par.

Two strokes back were Mason Rudolph, Julius Boros and Chi Chi Rodriguez. Bobby Mitchell of Danville, Va., Tony Evans of Fayetteville N.C., and Richard Crawford of Eldorado, Ark., were tied at 74.

Billy Casper was in a large group at 75. Lee Trevino finished at 77, defending champion Orville Moody and Arnold Palmer trudged in with 79s. Gary Player took an 80 and Jack Nicklaus 81.

"We played a golf course that during practice rounds was extremely wet," said Palmer. "It changed overnight to a dry, windy course. There's no excuse for shooting 79, not even on this course."

"The course was not to my liking in the first round," said Palmer, "but I see one man shot a 71 on the same golf course I played on."

Jacklin, the 1969 British Open champion from Elsham, England, went into the last three holes of his round four-under par. But the 25-year-old Briton bogeyed 16 with three putts and landed in a creek for a double bogey on 17.

"It wouldn't bother me at all if the winds continued the next three days," Jacklin said. "I was brought up in this kind of weather. In fact, this wind isn't tremendously strong compared to some that we get back home."

"I hope it does stay like this. But the next day could be beautiful and everything could change."

Waslewski, Yanks Defeat Boston, 3-2

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees needed some help and the call was answered by wandering Gary Waslewski.

The former Boston Red Sox right-hander got one of his infrequent starts and performed superbly, allowing his former teammates two harmless singles for six innings before tiring in the Yankees 3-2 victory over Boston Wednesday night.

"I had to come up with somebody," Houk said. "I thought Gary might be the guy."

Waslewski, a 28-year-old picked up from the Montreal

Expos a month ago, was just that, providing the lift and the Yankees—winning their 12th game in 14 starts—edged to within 1½ games of the American League East Division leading Baltimore Orioles. Last year at this time, the Yankees trailed Baltimore by 16½ games. They were 31-35 compared to the current mark of 38-25.

In the only other AL game, Cleveland stopped Washington 6-3, while in the only two National League contests, Montreal ripped Atlanta 10-7 and Chicago blanked San Francisco 6-0.

The Yanks led 3-0, including a homer by Curt Blefary and a run-scoring single by Bobb Mur-cer before Waslewski was reached for a lead-off homer by Sox' shortstop Rico Petrocelli in the seventh.

Houk replaced Waslewski, who was making only his second start for the Yankees, with ace bullpener Lindy McDaniel, who held off the Red Sox despite Petrocelli's second solo homer, a ninth-inning blast into the screen in left.

Waslewski, who pitched in the 1967 World Series for the Red Sox, moved to the St. Louis Cardinals and the Expos in 1968 before the Yankees bought him. He also hurled for seven minor league clubs in his 10-year pro career.

The victory was his first of the season after going 0-2 with Montreal.

Tony Horton slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning, snapping a 3-3 tie and giving the Indians their fifth consecutive victory.

Horton also ripped a pair of singles and was aided by solo homers by teammates Ray Fosse and Graig Nettles. Aurelio Rodriguez had a two-run shot for the Senators.

Ron Fairly slugged an eighth-inning grand slam homer to cap Montreal's six-run rally in over-taking the Braves who got three hits from Hank Aaron, including his 18th roundtripper of the season.

Aaron, who drove in four runs, added a single and double along with his two-run shot, the 572nd of his career while Gary Gosger drilled four hits for the Expos, including a two-run homer.

Ron Santo and Billy Williams belted homers and the Cubs breezed to their triumph behind the seven-hit hurling of right-hander Ferguson Jenkins.

Santo was a two-run shot off loser Rich Robertson while Williams contributed his 18th of the season, a solo shot, as Jenkins, 8-7, rolled to his fifth consecutive triumph.

Freehan Leads AL All-Star Votes

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Freehan, the Detroit Tigers' All-Star catcher for six consecutive American League seasons in player balloting, was the people's choice to make it seven in a row, drawing the most votes in the first weekly release announced today by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The National League's initial returns were announced Monday for the 41st mid-season classic between the two major leagues. The game will be played July 14 in Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium.

With the voting turned over to the fans for the first time since 1957, Freehan drew 265,258 of the 491,548 votes cast. Elrod Hendricks of Baltimore was a distant second at catcher with 36,555 votes.

Boog Powell, Baltimore's slugging first baseman was the second biggest vote-getter, gaining 255,515. Rod Carew, the Minnesota Twins' second baseman and current league batting leader with a .364 mark, was next with 236,938 votes.

The rest of the team in the early voting shows Harmon Killebrew of the Twins at third base, Rico Petrocelli of Boston at shortstop and Baltimore's Frank Robinson, Frank Howard of Washington and Carl Yastrzemski of the Red Sox in the outfield.

The fan balloting will end June 28 and the official starting All-Star team will be announced July 6-7. The voting is limited to eight starters with the rival managers, Earl Weaver of Baltimore and Gil Hodges of the New York Mets, naming the pitchers and remainder of the squad.

The NL's early leaders included Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, catcher; Willie McCovey, San Francisco, first base; Glenn Beckert, Chicago, second base; Tony Perez, Cincinnati, third base; Don Kessinger, Chicago, shortstop; and outfielders Hank Aaron and Rico Carty of Atlanta and Willie Mays of San Francisco.

Freehan, Powell, Carew, Frank Robinson, Howard and Yastrzemski each held commanding leads at their respective positions with stiff battles only at shortstop and third base.

Stoutsville, DuPont Win In Tri County LL

Stoutsville pounded the ball for 20 hits as they blasted Salt Creek, 18-7, and Pickaway DuPont came up with a triple play to help them down Washington, 7-1, to feature action in the Tri County Little League minors Thursday.

David Marshall smashed two home runs and Strehl rapped four hits to lead the Stoutsville attack.

Hunter blasted a long triple to pace the Salt Creek swingers. Pickaway DuPont came up with a triple play when, with the bases loaded, the batter struck out on an attempted double steal and they nailed one runner at the plate and the other one going into third. DuPont also had two double plays in the fray.

DAVID Palmer pitched the win for DuPont, striking out seven and giving up three free passes while Mark Vanover gave up nine hits, walked four and fanned five for the Washington boys.

Jeff Collins, Tony Crist and Palmer had two hits apiece for the DuPont squad and York came up the only hit for the Washington team.

Pickaway DuPont is now 3-0 in the league.

Dannie Dulan Races In Soap Box Derby

Circleville will be represented in the annual Soap Box Derby when Dannie Dulan of Route 3 makes his run for the honors on June 27 in Columbus.

The 13-year-old speedster is attempting to duplicate his brother's effort and go on to the All-American Soap Box Derby in Akron.

Mike Dulan won in Zanesville in 1968 and went on to Akron where he won several heats before losing a close race to one of the top contenders.

Dannie will make his bid for fame and glory on the course in Big Run Park, located at Frank and Kline Roads.

The racer was built by young Dulan and is made of pine, plywood and fiberglass. He has painted it metallic black with a gold stripe and won't have to take a back seat to anyone in looks.

Dannie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Dulan, Dunkel Road.

Pickaway Wins County LL Fray

Pickaway defeated Washington, 16-0, in a Tri County Little League major contest Thursday.

R. Palmer with five hits and D. Konkle with four hits led the 24-hit barrage for Pickaway. S. Rawlins and Williams connected for home runs, Rawlins and B. Bell had triples and Palmer had two doubles while Williams and Short each came up with a two-bagger in the winning effort.

Williams, Palmer and Rawlins shared the mound duties for Pickaway while Richie, Allen and Justs hrlred for Washington.

VFW Tops Savings Bank In Pony Play

VFW topped the Savings Bank, 5-2, in the only Pony League action of the night Thursday.

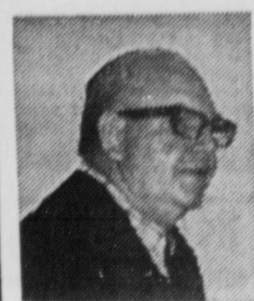

VFW tapped in nine runs while committing one error. Brian Herron hit a double for VFW. The Savings Bank managed three hits for two runs but committed three errors.

Jeff Walisa was the winning hurler. He fanned 13 and walked two. Rick Ramsey and Jim Brown shared the loss on the hill. Together they struck out 11, walked six, and allowed nine hits.

The Wake Forest tennis team completed its season with a 13-5 record.

You hear a lot about the unpleasant conduct of a few parents and coaches who get caught up in the excitement of the Little League contests and we are sorry to say some of it is true. These unfortunate incidents are in the minority and we would like to take a little time and point out the good things that happen.

We saw a game between Bingman's and the American Legion and it was a pleasure to watch. The players were excellent, both in play and conduct. Young managers handled their clubs in a manner that was a credit to everyone. Parents cheered heartily for their offspring and team, but always in good taste. Umpires gave of their time and effort and received praise not criticism. When the game was over the losers were as quick to shake hands as the winners. And as a fitting climax to the whole thing, two "real big leaguers", one winner and one loser, walking to the coke stand together to have a "cold one for the road." Maybe the time and effort is worthwhile after all. We think so. Keep up the good work, kids. We adults may learn something from you.

It's a lot of work to handle the Youth Baseball Program and credit should be given to a fine bunch of guys who make it possible for the youngsters to play ball. We won't try to name them all because we are sure to omit someone. However, they are usually around the ball parks so why not just walk up to them and say "Thanks".

We are sorry to say there has been reports of gloves, bikes and other equipment being stolen at the games. Parents know what belongs to their kids, and if they come home with an unfamiliar article why not find out where it came from? You wouldn't want your youngster to lose something he had worked hard to get.

Our little gem of information — Eddie Stanky played second for base for three different teams in the World Series. In 1947 he was with the Brooklyn Dodgers. In 1948 he was a member of the Boston Braves. In 1951 it was the New York Giants.

Our "fearless" forecast — Arnie or Julius will lead the line when the last putt drops at Hazeltine.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

First National, Savings Bank, Ward's Win LL Frays

First National stomped IOOF, 37-2, the Savings Bank topped Circleville Oil, 12-5, and Ward's Market took Rotary, 15-7.

First National took off with 12 runs in the first stanza, then added five more in the second and third, blasted another 12 in the fourth and had eight in the fifth while allowing IOOF one in the fourth and one in the sixth.

Tom McGuire was four for six from the batters box. McGuire nailed a homer, a triple, a double and a single and tallied six runs. Steve Short also hit a homer and a double for the winners while Joe Mogan counted two triples and a two-bagger, Dave Cline cracked a triple, and Tom Conrad and Denny Williams had doubles.

Cline was the winning hurler in the battle. Gary Willison took the loss.

Jamie Hickey tossed the victory in the Bankers-Oilers fray. He fanned five, walked one, and allowed seven hits. Mark Linton and Greg Griebel suffered the loss.

Tom Scherer and Jamies Hickey tagged triples for the winning effort while Dave Holbrook banged two doubles and Hickey, Tom Hill, and Ray Cuellar hit one.

Linton hit a double and a triple for the Oilers.

Randy Dean was the hero of the battle as Wards tangled with Rotary. Dean blasted two homers, a grand slam and two runner. Bret Brown. Tom Taylor and Rock Dean hit three-sackers and Jim Edgington hit a double. Dave Cherrington hit a double for the Rotary "9".

Eric Berger was the winning pitcher and Marcus Albright took the loss.

Tony Jacklin Takes Lead In U.S. Open; Likes Wind

CHASKA, Minn. (AP) — England's Tony Jacklin compares playing an unfamiliar, wind-blown golf course with traveling abroad—one must adjust.

But Jacklin must have thought the par-72, 7,151-yard Hazeltine National Golf Club was like home the way he adjusted and vaulted into the lead with a one-under-par 71 before today's second round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

"If I go to a new country," said Jacklin, "I adjust to its food and its habits. When I play a new course, like this one, I try to adjust to its characteristics."

The rest of the star-filled field didn't adapt to 40 mile-per-hour winds that slammed into Hazeltine and sent almost half of the 105 men field past 80 after Thursday's first round.

Jacklin, with the forceful winds reminding him of English courses where he learned the game, adjusted so effectively that he was the only man below par. No one else reached par.

Two strokes back were Mason Rudolph, Julius Boros and Chi Chi Rodriguez. Bobby Mitchell of Danville, Va., Tony Evans of Fayetteville N.M.C., and Richard Crawford of Eldorado, Ark., were tied at 74.

Billy Casper was in a large group at 75, Lee Trevino finished at 77, defending champion Orville Moody and Arnold Palmer trudged in with 79s, Gary Player took an 80 and Jack Nicklaus 81.

"We played a golf course that during practice rounds was extremely wet," said Palmer. "It changed overnight to a dry, windy course. There's no excuse for shooting 79, not even on this course."

"The course was not to my liking in the first round," said Palmer, "but I see one man shot a 71 on the same golf course I played on."

Jacklin, the 1969 British Open champion from Elsham, England, went into the last three holes of his round four-under-par. But the 25-year-old Briton bogeyed 16 with three putts and landed in a creek for a double bogey on 17.

"It wouldn't bother me at all if the winds continued the next three days," Jacklin said. "I was brought up in this kind of weather. In fact, this wind isn't tremendously strong compared to some that we get back home. I hope it does stay like this. But the next day could be beautiful and everything could change."

Circleville Wins 2 In Slow Pitch

Circleville Independents took both ends of a doubleheader Wednesday night in the Pickaway County Slow Pitch League.

The Independents ripped General Electric pitching for four home runs and an 18-0 win in the first game and beat PPG, 8-4, in the second affair.

Don Mendenhall, Roger McConnell, Jim McConnell and Mick Tomlinson blasted four batters in the opening fray and Jim Weaver and Harold Stevens contributed triples to lead the Independents' attack.

Mel Mendenhall homered and tripled for Circleville in the second game and Harold Stevens added four hits as they downed the PPG team.

Circleville now has a 5-0 record in the league.

42 Takes Low Gross In PCC Ladies Golf

Jan McKelvey captured low gross honors with a 42 and Mary Carpenter won low putts with 14 to feature the action in the Pickaway Country Club ladies' league.

Erma Hedges' team leads the league with 33 points, Mary Carpenter's team is second with 30 points and Betty Young's team is third with 23½ points.

Paul Hoskins To Give Up Cage Duties

Jud Lanman, executive head of the Westfall School District, announced today that Paul Hoskins has asked to be relieved of his duties as head basketball coach at Westfall High School.

Hoskins will continue in the capacity of head baseball coach, athletic director and teacher of biological studies and drivers training.

When Westfall opened in 1964, he assumed the duties of reserve basketball coach and took over the varsity job in 1967.

In three seasons as reserve coach, Hoskins' teams won the Scioto Valley Conference championship twice and were runnerup the third year.

HIS 1967-68 varsity team compiled a 13-6 record while the 1968-69 squad was co-champions of the SVC with a 15-5 mark. The 1969-70 team had a record of 8-11.

Hoskins garnered a 36-22 record while at Westfall and his teams were always a pleasure to watch in action, being well coached and never say die type clubs.

His coaching career started at Jackson Township school where he handled all sports and had a winning record. He left Jackson to take the Westfall job.

When asked about the move, Hoskins stated, "It's been 12 years and I just don't have the time with my other duties anymore. I will devote my time to baseball and being athletic director and teaching classes. However, it has been a pleasure and I've enjoyed every minute of it."

The basketball job is open and can be tied up with math, social studies or industrial art in the classroom. Applications should be sent to Jud Lanman at Westfall High School.

Mark Ranck hurls a shutout to help the Laundrymen cleanup with a 20-0 win. Ranck fanned 14 batters. He also teamed up with Rick Elsea and Don Hill belting a double.

VFW Tops Savings Bank In Pony Play

VFW topped the Savings Bank, 5-2, in the only Pony League action of the night Thursday.

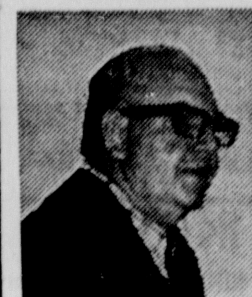

VFW tapped in nine runs while committing one error. Brian Herron hit a double for VFW. The Savings Bank managed three hits for two runs but committed three errors.

Jeff Walisa was the winning hurler. He fanned 13 and walked two. Rick Ramsey and Jim Brown shared the loss on the hill. Together they struck out 11, walked six, and allowed nine hits.

The Wake Forest tennis team completed its season with a 13-5 record.

Waslewski, Yanks Defeat Boston, 3-2

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees needed some help and the call was answered by wandering Gary Waslewski.

The former Boston Red Sox right-hander got one of his infrequent starts and performed superbly, allowing his former teammates two harmless singles for six innings before tiring in the Yankees 3-2 victory over Boston Wednesday night.

"I had to come up with somebody," Houk said. "I thought Gary might be the guy."

Waslewski, a 28-year-old picked up from the Montreal

Expos a month ago, was just that, providing the lift and the Yankees—winning their 12th game in 14 starts—edged to within 1½-games of the American League East Division leading Baltimore Orioles. Last year at this time, the Yankees trailed Baltimore by 16½-games. They were 31-35 compared to the current mark of 38-25.

In the only other AL game, Cleveland stopped Washington 6-3, while in the only two National League contests, Montreal ripped Atlanta 10-7 and Chicago blanked San Francisco 6-0.

The Yanks led 3-0, including a homer by Curt Blefary and a run-scoring single by Bobb Mur-cer before Waslewski was reached for a lead-off homer by Sox' shortstop Rico Petrocelli in the seventh.

Houk replaced Waslewski, who was making only his second start for the Yankees, with ace bullpener Lindy McDaniel, who held off the Red Sox despite Petrocelli's second solo homer, a ninth-inning blast into the screen in left.

Waslewski, who pitched in the 1967 World Series for the Red Sox, moved to the St. Louis Cardinals and the Expos in 1968 before the Yankees bought him. He also hurled for seven minor league clubs in his 10-year pro career.

The victory was his first of the season after going 0-2 with Montreal.

Tony Horton slammed a three-run homer in the eighth inning, snapping a 3-3 tie and giving the Indians their fifth consecutive victory.

Horton also ripped a pair of singles and was aided by solo homers by teammates Ray Fosse and Graig Nettles. Aurelio Rodriguez had a two-run shot for the Senators.

Ron Fairly slammed an eighth-inning grand slam homer to cap Montreal's six-run rally in overtaking the Braves who got three hits from Hank Aaron, including his 18th roundtripper of the season.

Aaron, who drove in four runs, added a single and double along with his two-run shot, the 572nd of his career while Gary Gosger drilled four hits for the Expos, including a two-run homer.

Ron Santo and Billy Williams belted homers and the Cubs breezed to their triumph behind the seven-hit hurling of right-hander Ferguson Jenkins.

Santo was a two-run shot off loser Rich Robertson while Williams contributed his 18th of the season, a solo shot, as Jenkins, 8-7, rolled to his fifth consecutive triumph.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-2086

Mr. and Mrs. James Fry of Amanda were the weekend guests of Miss Doris Cook. On Sunday they all attended a dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Riley of Nelsonville.

The following club members and mothers of the Fashion Minded Mods and Ashville Str and Stitch 4-H Clubs just returned from a three day trip by bus to Gettysburg and Hershey, Pennsylvania. Sherrie Barr, Cindy Lockard, Cathy Myers, Jan Roberts, Medrith Barr, Robyn Norris, Kim Norris, Valarie Houser, Tami Trego, Kim Glick, Becky Foreman, Judy Rife, Karen Peters, Shirley Courtwright, Grace Engle, Jessie Hosler, Rhonda Wharton, Kris Trego, Cathy Trego, Brenda Moody, Brenda Hoover, Jill Trego, Deb Helser, Pat Parsons, Sue Engle, Karen Harmon, Susan Rafferty, Mrs. Jerry Trego, Mrs. William Wharton, Mrs. Dwight Norris, Mrs. Richard Foreman, Mrs. Fred Engle, and Mrs. Bill Lockard the club advisor. The bus driver was Mr. John Robinson of Circleville.

The girls and mothers had a very enjoyable visit. They toured the National Museum, Battlefield, Wax Museum, Hall of Presidents and the Charlie Weaver museum.

Following the sight-seeing they enjoyed dinner at the Dutch Cupboard, which served authentic Pennsylvania Dutch food.

In Hershey they toured the chocolate factory and each visitor received a gift of the company.

There will be a six-weeks' personal typing course offered at Teays Valley High School this summer. Class will be from 8 to 10 a.m. beginning June 22 and ending July 31.

Students can receive one-quarter of a credit for the course if they wish. The class will be taught by Mrs. Helen Cookson.

Anyone interested in enrolling can get further information by calling 983-3131 or 983-3273.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters will have their annual June dinner meeting on Thursday evening, June 25. The dinner will be held at the Wardell Party Home and all Past Chiefs and Pythian Sisters of the Ashville Temple are invited to attend.

The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. and all those attending are asked to meet at the K. P. Lodge Hall no later than 6 p.m. Transportation will be furnished for those wishing it. Each person attending is asked to take a white elephant gift.

Reservations are to be made with Carolyn Peters by June 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Duvall (Carol Baum) are now residing in South Lyons, Michigan. Carol will be teaching in the South Lyons school system while Andy will be attending the University of Michigan.

Teays Valley High School teachers honored Miss Nelle Oesterle at a luncheon in the dining room of the Lutz Coffee Shop on June 3.

Miss Oesterle retired at the end of the school year after thirty-five years of teaching, 34 years in public schools and one year at Rio Grande College.

Reminiscing of former times and remarks were made by Mrs. Helen Cookson, Mr. Benis Lutz and Mr. Richard Snider.

A gift was presented to Miss Oesterle from the Teays Valley teachers, all of whom were present at the luncheon.

Committee members who planned the affair were Mrs.

Dorothy Beavers, Mrs. Phoebe Engle, Mrs. Ruth Tootle, and Mrs. Helen Cookson.

The WSCS of the Village United Methodist Church is having a Big Bear Club Party at noon on June 26. The luncheon and program will be held in the church basement. All ladies in the community are cordially invited to attend and tickets may be purchased from Helen Tootle, Peg Trimble, Shelia Kirk and Evelyn Johnson, or any member of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook and Marla and Mr. and Mrs. James Tussing and sons recently returned home after vacationing at Daytona Beach in Florida.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance made the following runs this past week. June 11 took Mr. W. O. Riegel to Mercy Hospital; June 14 returned Bill Myers to his home from Doctors Hospital; June 15 took Charles Horner to Mercy Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hines (Alice Baum) announce the birth of a son, John Mark, on May 29. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baum and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hines.

The Pythian Sisters of Ashville Temple No 366 met in the K. P. Hall on Tuesday evening for the last meeting of the summer. Most Excellent Chief, Dorothy Cook, presided during the ritualistic opening, business meeting and the initiatory ceremony. Welcomed as a new member into the Temple was Diane Custer Hartley.

An official letter was read from the Grand Chief Hazel Thomas. Grand Temple Convention will be held in Cincinnati on September 9-12. Gladys Rush in the delegate of the local Temple with Madge Baum as alternate.

The auditing committee consisting of Madge Baum, Helen Kuhlwein and Pearl Fortner gave their report.

Orders are still being taken by the members for homemade noodles, and will be all during the summer.

Following the meeting a delicious salad course was served to those present by Shirley Rathburn and Janet McNeal.

The Temple will recess during the months of July and August with the next meeting to be held September 1.

Mrs. June Hovis has been a patient in the Lockbourne Air Force Base Hospital.

A very interesting meeting, planned by Don Collins and Steve Cook, was presented at the June 9 meeting of the Ashville Kiwanis Club. The program involved personnel from the Mid Ohio Regional Planning Commission. The commission involves Franklin County and adjacent areas. Guests at the meeting were members of the Ashville Village Council, the Village Board of Public Affairs, Pickaway County Commissioners, Soil Conservation Service and County Extension Office were also represented. Also attending was Steve Jones of the Circleville Herald.

At the June 16 meeting the program was to be given by Raymond Riegel, showing slides of his recent trip to Japan. The program was arranged by President Everett Beers.

On June 23 members of the Eastland Vocational and Industrial Planning Commission will be present.

Bloodmobile Collects 102 Pints During Thursday Stop

Blood donations at the Thursday visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville did not meet the county's quota. The units collected did, however, maintain a reasonably high level when members of the staff of doctors and nurses relinquished their duties long enough to donate blood.

From the 108 persons registered to give, 102 units were collected.

Mrs. Sterling Poling became a six-gallon donor; Arthur Dick, five-gallon; William Archer and Robert Sherman, two-gallon; Paul Eastman, Orman Hartranft and Mrs. Mary Justice, one-gallon.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and Ty Foster of Boy Scout Troop 52 were responsible for loading and unloading equipment. Jerry Starkey assisted with set-up and break-down.

Ice was donated by Ed Ebert. The Canteen at the Thursday visit was sponsored by Salt-creek Grange: Mrs. Hoyt Timmons, Mrs. Fred DeLong, Mrs. Raymond Hedges, Mrs. Grace Anderson, Mrs. Donna Beougher, Mrs. Clarence Maxson and Mrs. Carl Dean.

Red Cross Volunteers were Mrs. Herman Will, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Charles Walker, Miss Katherine Mead, Mrs. Lewis Dean, Mrs. B. B. Deffenbaugh, Mrs. Royce Woolever, Mrs. Ben Brian, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, Mrs. C. S. Dille, Mrs. John Ankrom and Mrs. Howard Huston.

Red Cross Volunteers aiding were Ann Myers, Virginia Johnson, Karen Foster, and Belinda Adams.

Registered nurses on duty were Mrs. Don Archer, Mrs. Charles Walters, Mrs. H. W. Fraas, Mrs. William Camp, Mrs. Robert G. Smith, Mrs. Ralph Bryant, Mrs. James Sutton, Mrs. James Fosnaugh and Mrs. Stanley Jones.

Robert Lloyd Visits Haiti On Crusade

ROBERT LLOYD

Robert Lloyd of Route 1, a member of Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, joined a group of service crusaders in Miami, Fla. and flew via Air France and Cohata Airlines to Jeremie, Haiti in the West Indies, for 14 days of service alongside the missionaries. The group included construction personnel, a doctor, nurses, pharmacist, and other varied occupations. The lived on the mission compound and in remote outstations, using their varied skills as a witness for Christ.

The Haiti Service Crusade was directed by Maurice W. Stevens under the auspices of Missionary World Service and Evangelism, Wilmore, Ky. This organization has service crusades planned for Colombia, S. A. in January 1971; Kenya, Africa, and Arizona Indian Work in 1970-71.

Ammonia Burns Man

Frank Bowling Jr., Route 2, was treated at Berger Hospital for second degree burns of the face and chest.

He was loading an ammonia tank Thursday afternoon at the Frank Bowling farm on Route 56 when the hose slipped, spraying him with ammonia.

Vo-Ed Board To Select Architect

1971 May Primary Earliest Date For Bond Issue Vote

The Pickaway-Ross County Vocational Education School Board of Education reached the decision during a meeting Thursday not to place a bond issue on the November ballot.

The earliest a bond issue for constructing the proposed school could be placed before the voters of Pickaway and Ross Counties is the 1971 May Primary according to Nelson Stevens, chairman of the board.

Stevens said today the board felt that time limitations would not permit an adequate study of the needs of the new building.

A committee with Wilbur Mundell as chairman was appointed to select an architect for the new building. The board will employ the architect at the July 16 meeting.

No decision was reached on whether to accept Laurelville's application to become a member of the vocational education district.

Stevens pointed out there are legal ramifications that must be studied before the board can take action.

A tentative budget request

Kiwanians Register Opposition

Circleville Kiwanis Club members Monday night adopted resolutions indicating opposition to college campus demonstrations and disorders; insisting on proper punishment for those convicted of such demonstrations and disorders; insisting on more enforceable current laws that would punish people convicted of lawlessness, indicating the opposition of war by members of Circleville Kiwanis Club but at the same time, pledging their support to leaders of the country in their decisions concerning Vietnam and Cambodia.

Col. Elmer Edwards of Columbus General Depot and a member of Reynoldsburg Kiwanis Club spoke to local members of "International Relations". He noted the importance of international relations to Kiwanis and to the community.

Waldo Martin presided at the weekly meeting.

was approved for presentation to the state for operating funds for the school district.

In addition a committee was named to study ways of getting operating funds that will be needed before an operating levy is passed.

A guidance program was approved for presentation to the state department of education.

Ashville News Report

Mrs. John Sabine — 983-2086

Mr. and Mrs. James Fry of Amanda were the weekend guests of Miss Doris Cook. On Sunday they all attended a dinner party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Riley of Nelsonville.

The following club members and mothers of the Fashion Minded Mods and Ashville Stir and Stitch 4-H Clubs just returned from a three day trip by bus to Gettysburg and Hershey, Pennsylvania. Sherrie Barr, Cindy Lockard, Cathy Myers, Jan Roberts, Medrith Barr, Robyn Norris, Kim Norris, Valerie Houser, Tami Trego, Kim Glick, Becky Foreman, Shirley Courtright, Grace Engle, Jessie Hosler, Rhonda Wharton, Kris Trego, Cathy Trego, Brenda Moody, Brenda Hoover, Jill Trego, Deb Heler, Pat Parsons, Sue Engle, Karen Harcourt, Susan Rafferty, Mrs. Jerry Trego, Mrs. William Wharton, Mrs. Dwight Norris, Mrs. Richard Foreman, Mrs. Fred Engle, and Mrs. Bill Lockard the club advisor. The bus driver was Mr. John Robinson of Circleville.

The girls and mothers had a very enjoyable visit. They toured the National Museum, Battlefield, Wax Museum, Hall of Presidents and the Charlie Weaver museum.

Following the sight-seeing they enjoyed dinner at the Dutch Cupboard, which served authentic Pennsylvania Dutch food.

In Hershey they toured the chocolate factory and each visitor received a gift of the company.

There will be a six-weeks' personal typing course offered at Teays Valley High School this summer. Class will be from 8 to 10 a.m. beginning June 22 and ending July 31.

Students can receive one-quarter of a credit for the course if they wish. The class will be taught by Mrs. Helen Cookson.

Anyone interested in enrolling can get further information by calling 983-3131 or 983-3273.

The Past Chiefs Club of the Pythian Sisters will have their annual June dinner meeting on Thursday evening, June 25. The dinner will be held at the Wardell Party Home and all Past Chiefs and Pythian Sisters of the Ashville Temple are invited to attend.

The dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. and all those attending are asked to meet at the K. P. Lodge Hall no later than 6 p.m. Transportation will be furnished for those wishing it. Each person attending is asked to take a white elephant gift.

Reservations are to be made with Carolyn Peters by June 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Duvall (Carol Baum) are now residing in South Lyons, Michigan. Carol will be teaching in the South Lyons school system while Andy will be attending the University of Michigan.

Teays Valley High School teachers honored Miss Nelle Osterle at a luncheon in the dining room of the Lutz Coffee Shop on June 3.

Miss Osterle retired at the end of the school year after thirty-five years of teaching, 34 years in public schools and one year at Rio Grande College.

Reminiscing of former times and remarks were made by Mrs. Helen Cookson, Mr. Benis Lutz and Mr. Richard Snider.

A gift was presented to Miss Osterle from the Teays Valley teachers, all of whom were present at the luncheon.

Committee members who planned the affair were Mrs.

Dorothy Beavers, Mrs. Phoebe Engle, Mrs. Ruth Tootle, and Mrs. Helen Cookson.

The WSCS of the Village United Methodist Church is having a Big Bear Club Party at noon on June 26. The luncheon and program will be held in the church basement. All ladies in the community are cordially invited to attend and tickets may be purchased from Helen Toole, Peg Trimble, Shelia Kirk and Evelyn Johnson, or any member of the society.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cook and Marla and Mr. and Mrs. James Tussing and sons recently returned home after vacationing at Daytona Beach in Florida.

The Bastian Funeral Home ambulance made the following runs this past week. June 11 took Mr. W. O. Riegel to Mercy Hospital; June 14 returned Bill Myers to his home from Doctors Hospital; June 15 took Charles Horner to Mercy Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hines (Alice Baum) announce the birth of a son, John Mark, on May 29. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baum and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hines.

The Pythian Sisters of Ashville Temple No 366 met in the K. P. Hall on Tuesday evening for the last meeting of the summer. Most Excellent Chief, Dorothy Cook, presided during the ritualistic opening, business meeting and the initiatory ceremony. Welcomed as a new member into the Temple was Diane Custer Hartley.

An official letter was read from the Grand Chief Hazel Thomas. Grand Temple Convention will be held in Cincinnati on September 9-12. Gladys Rush in the delegate of the local Temple with Madge Baum as alternate.

The auditing committee consisting of Madge Baum, Helen Kuhlwein and Pearl Fortner gave their report.

Orders are still being taken by the members for homemade noodles, and will be all during the summer.

Following the meeting a delicious salad course was served to those present by Shirley Rathburn and Janet McNeal.

The Temple will recess during the months of July and August with the next meeting to be held September 1.

Mrs. June Hovis has been a patient in the Lockbourne Air Force Base Hospital.

A very interesting meeting, planned by Don Collins and Steve Cook, was presented at the June 9 meeting of the Ashville Kiwanis Club. The program involved personnel from the Mid Ohio Regional Planning Commission. The commission involves Franklin County and adjacent areas. Guests at the meeting were members of the Ashville Village Council, the Village Board of Public Affairs, Pickaway County Commissioners, Soil Conservation Service and County Extension Office were also represented. Also attending was Steve Jones of the Circleville Herald.

At the June 16 meeting the program was to be given by Raymond Riegel, showing slides of his recent trip to Japan. The program was arranged by President Everett Beers.

On June 23 members of the Eastland Vocational and Industrial Planning Commission will be present.

Bloodmobile Collects 102 Pints During Thursday Stop

Blood donations at the Thursday visit of the Bloodmobile to Circleville did not meet the county's quota. The units collected did, however, maintain a reasonably high level when members of the staff of doctors and nurses relinquished their duties long enough to donate blood.

From the 108 persons registered to give, 102 units were collected.

Mrs. Sterling Poling became a six-gallon donor; Arthur Dick, five-gallon; William Archer and Robert Sherman, two-gallon; Paul Eastman, Orman Hartranft and Mrs. Mary Justice, one-gallon.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and Ty Foster of Boy Scout Troop 52 were responsible for loading and unloading equipment. Jerry Starkey assisted with set-up and break-down.

Ice was donated by Ed Ebert. The Canteen at the Thursday visit was sponsored by Saltcreek Grange: Mrs. Hoyt Timmons, Mrs. Fred DeLong, Mrs. Raymond Hedges, Mrs. Grace Anderson, Mrs. Donna Beougher, Mrs. Clarence Maxson and Mrs. Carl Dean.

Red Cross Volunteers were Mrs. Herman Will, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Charles Walker, Miss Katherine Mead, Mrs. Lewis Dean, Mrs. B. B. Deffenbaugh, Mrs. Royce Woolver, Mrs. Ben Brian, Mrs. Montford Kirkwood, Mrs. C. S. Dille, Mrs. John Ankrom and Mrs. Howard Huston.

Red Cross Volunteers aiding were Ann Myers, Virginia Johnson, Karen Foster, and Belinda Adams.

Registered nurses on duty were Mrs. Don Archer, Mrs. Charles Walters, Mrs. H. W. Fraas, Mrs. William Camp, Mrs. Robert G. Smith, Mrs. Ralph Bryant, Mrs. James Sutton, Mrs. James Fosnaugh and Mrs. Stanley Jones.

Robert Lloyd Visits Haiti On Crusade

ROBERT LLOYD

Robert Lloyd of Route 1, a member of Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, joined a group of service crusaders in Miami, Fla. and flew via Air France and Cohata Airlines to Jeremie, Haiti in the West Indies, for 14 days of service alongside the missionaries. The group included construction personnel, a doctor, nurses, pharmacist, and other varied occupations. The lived on the mission compound and in remote outstations, using their varied skills as a witness for Christ.

The Haiti Service Crusade was directed by Maurice W. Stevens under the auspices of Missionary World Service and Evangelism, Wilmore, Ky. This organization has service crusades planned for Colombia, S. A. in January 1971; Kenya, Africa, and Arizona Indian Work in 1970-71.

Ammonia Burns Man

Frank Bowling Jr., Route 2, was treated at Berger Hospital for second degree burns of the face and chest.

He was loading an ammonia tank Thursday afternoon at the Frank Bowling farm on Route 56 when the hose slipped, spraying him with ammonia.

Vo-Ed Board To Select Architect

1971 May Primary Earliest Date For Bond Issue Vote

The Pickaway-Ross County Vocational Education School Board of Education reached the decision during a meeting Thursday not to place a bond issue on the November ballot.

The earliest a bond issue for constructing the proposed school could be placed before the voters of Pickaway and Ross Counties is the 1971 May Primary according to Nelson Stevens, chairman of the board.

Stevens said today the board felt that time limitations would not permit an adequate study of the needs of the new building. A committee with Wilbur Mundell as chairman was appointed to select an architect for the new building. The board will employ the architect at the July 16 meeting.

NO decision was reached on whether to accept Laurelville's application to become a member of the vocational education district.

Stevens pointed out there are legal ramifications that must be studied before the board can take action.

Kiwanians Register Opposition

Circleville Kiwanis Club members Monday night adopted resolutions indicating opposition to college campus demonstrations and disorders; insisting on proper punishment for those convicted of such demonstrations and disorders; insisting on more enforceable current laws that would punish people convicted of lawlessness, indicating the opposition of war by members of Circleville Kiwanis Club but at the same time, pledging their support to leaders of the country in their decisions concerning Vietnam and Cambodia.

Col. Elmer Edwards of Columbus General Depot and a member of Reynoldsburg Kiwanis Club spoke to local members of "International Relations". He noted the importance of international relations to Kiwanis and to the community.

Waldo Martin presided at the weekly meeting.

was approved for presentation to the state for operating funds for the school district.

In addition a committee was named to study ways of getting operating funds that will be needed before an operating levy is passed.

A guidance program was approved for presentation to the state department of education.
